

Campaigns volunteer

Location: Remote

Start date: As soon as possible

Note: Must be an Arabic speaker (Libyan dialect)

Are you interested in human rights and women's rights? Are you confident in using social media and creating new content? LFJL is seeking a volunteer to help run a new campaign on our social media channels to help tackle online violence against women in Libya.

Applicants will have the opportunity to gain hands-on work experience at a leading human rights NGO and to develop knowledge of the human rights field, while growing your campaigning and communications skills. Your support will allow us to help continue our work in defending human rights and supporting women in Libya.

This opportunity is perfect for anyone looking to get into communications and outreach work in the NGO sector. Time commitment can vary between 10-15 hours per week, for a minimum of 2 months.

But enough about us, we can't wait to hear about you! We are particularly interested in hearing from you if you are the kind of person who is...

- Confident drafting and posting social media in Arabic (Libyan dialect);
- Has an interest in planning and executing awareness campaigns;
- Has a strong eye for detail and maintaining consistency of brand;
- Committed to women's rights and human rights;
- Experienced in producing graphics for social media (including in Arabic language) using design software such as Canva is a plus!

To apply, please send examples of your social media work and experience (if possible, include Arabic content) and a short cover letter on why you're interested to work with LFJL to:
