• A161 •

Chip Mims & other class leaders

With a lively mix of retired and not-yet-retired members (but open to all adults), this class enjoys vigorous teaching and serious study of biblical texts, often following the lectionary. We bring biblical teaching into the challenging arena of 21st century living.

Roddick/Discovery

• A166 •

Maurice Briggs, Fred Clifford (president), John Harrison & Rodney Stilwell

This class of mature, retired adults has a distinguished Knollwood history. Teachers alternate leading the study of biblical literature and other topics as the class also reflects on the spiritual gifts and challenges of our life stage. Since the Roddick class combined with the Discovery class in 2016, we have enjoyed the benefits of enhanced leadership and membership.

Ted Dougherty

This intergenerational class uses scripture, theology, and current issues as starting places for lively discussion. We often use DVD series, with topics ranging from world religions to the Bible to the lives of remarkable Christians, to stimulate conversation and contemporary life application. In the fall of 2018, we'll begin a series on "Death, Dying, and the Afterlife: Lessons from World Cultures" by Dr. Mark Berkson.

Sunday Morning Adult Groups at Knollwood Baptist Church

Each Sunday morning, all around our church campus, groups of adults gather to study, converse, debate, pray, listen, and simply walk alongside one another in life and faith. Some groups share a particular life stage; others are brought together by their approach to faith formation. All of them value mutual support and community. Come find your place in one of our classes.

Ted Philpott
& other class leaders

This larger class of mostly retired adults offers vigorous exploration of scripture texts and their present relevance and challenge. Our curriculum explores biblical themes, at times drawing from the rhythms of the lectionary and the seasons. Social gatherings in members' homes extend our fun and fellowship.

Faith in Action

• B224 •
Peggy Haymes, Mark Hix,
& other class leaders

This large group of diverse ages values questions, discussion, active service projects, and mutual care and support. Our faith formation discussions often follow the common lectionary to see how the biblical texts matter to us and our world.

Kindred Spirits

• A164 •
Bill Hearn, Joe Long, Roger Underwood
& other class leaders

This group seeks community through study, service, and shared life experiences. We range in age from mid-40s to mid-60s, with many empty nesters who have not yet retired. We often choose multiweek topical studies and frequently tackle shared service projects.

Barnabas

• B221 •
Rebecca Neiberg, Andy Tooze,
David Yarbrough

The Barnabas group is welcoming to newcomers and supportive of one another. Members range in age from their 30s to 50s, with diverse backgrounds. We encourage dialogue and sharing through thought-provoking discussions about the complexities of faith and life prompted by the Bible and other sources.

Faith Matters

• B231 •
Katharine Martin
& other class leaders

This group values lively discussion, mutual support, acceptance of diverse people, and involvement in social ministries. With varied ages but tilting toward younger adults, we begin with particular prayer practices, then explore questions of faith, biblical interpretation, and cultural relevance.

Mary Martha

• A175 •
Dot Rutledge (class president)
& Suzanne Newsome

The warm and loving Mary-Martha class consists of women "of a certain age" who eagerly study the Bible in light of God's guidance and our life experiences, seeking to live out God's love. This vibrant group of women is one of Knollwood's longest standing Sunday School classes, full of wisdom and experience.
