

Veteran Construction Safety Professional to Lead AdvanceTEC's Health & Safety Program

Industry veteran Anthony Allen brings more than 31 years of proven leadership to AdvanceTEC's safety program & culture

Richmond, VA, August 30, 2021 – AdvanceTEC, the leader in cleanroom design, construction, and mission critical process integration, today announced the addition of Anthony Allen as health and safety manager for the company.

In this critical leadership role, Allen is responsible for leading health and safety standards, policies, and procedures to drive continuous safety awareness, engagement, and improvement across all projects. Allen brings more than thirty-one years of health and safety experience in the biopharma industry, as well as other mission critical construction applications. He is known throughout our industry as a dedicated professional who is passionate about providing proactive solutions that minimize “at risk conditions and behaviors”. Allen has fine-tuned his skills delivering dynamic safety programs for industry leaders such as Merck, Jacobs, and Foster Wheeler.

“As AdvanceTEC continues to grow, it is vital for us to continue to strengthen our team to support the ever-increasing demands of our customers,” noted Bryan Phelan, AdvanceTEC Managing Partner and Director of Customers. “AdvanceTEC is committed to safety in all aspects of our business. The trust that our customers place in us is a responsibility that we take seriously, and the addition of Anthony is a commitment to our customers, our employees, and the trade-partners who work alongside us in the field. Anthony has demonstrated leadership, continuous advancements in safety certifications, and great character – and his ability to lead safety programs & drive a risk management culture is impressive. I look forward to his contribution to our safety program and the continued success of delivering safe projects for our valued customers, our dedicated employees, and trusted trade-partners.”
