

Theresa Hummel-Krallinger, known for her humorous and interactive presentations, is a seasoned corporate trainer, organizational development consultant, and professional stand-up comedian. Past-President of Greater Philadelphia ATD and Blue Bell Toastmasters, she has served on the non-credit faculty at Temple University, teaching courses in business communications and leadership. She won an Emmy in 2019 for her work with PBS. She facilitates Meet the Author at the Pyramid Club, which is in the top 10 business networking associations in Philadelphia. A core component of her business is developing technical managers so they can grow their people management and communication skills. Theresa works with senior leaders to restore the soul, and increase the heart, of their organizations.

