

BUSINESS COACHING

A complimentary support service for OnePath customers.

It's not easy being a business owner, and taking a break from your business to manage or recover for an illness or injury can be difficult.

We (OnePath Life) connect you with specialist business coaches who can help you make a successful return to work. This may include:

- restarting or refreshing your business after a break
- restructuring your business to adapt to your new circumstances
- getting a new business off the ground.

This service is provided by OnePath Life, so there is no cost to you.

How does it work?

We will work with you to find the right business coach that will understand your business and its challenges, or support you to expand your idea for a new business.

Working with a business coach typically involves:

- an initial meeting to understand your current business or business idea
- collaboration and development of a business plan
- regular catch-ups to discuss progress
- ongoing support when your business is up and running.

My 'business' is just me, can I still meet with a Business Coach?

It doesn't matter what size your business is, you can receive support from a business coach. How your coach supports you will be tailored to your specific business needs.

I have an idea for a business but don't know what to do next, is that okay?

Yes. There are many steps in turning a business idea into a reality. The first step is understanding if your idea is realistic and achievable. A business coach can help you work this out.

Case study

Ian is a 44-year-old self-employed plumber who suffered a crush injury to his spine. Ian's business had several sub-contractors but most of his role was 'on the tools'.

After his injury, Ian was no longer able to do all the plumbing duties he had previously done.

We worked with Ian to find the right business coach who understood the challenges of his business.

With support from his business coach, Ian was able to expand his business and shift his role from 'on the tools' to director, ensuring his business could continue to operate successfully and profitably.
