

Daniella Melissari

27. May 2020

LOYALTY

Daniella has been self-employed for the last 7 years but has during that time held project positions up to 7 years. Her loyalty is way above the average.

REMOTE FIT

As mentioned she has 7 years of experience as a freelancer. She works from her own professional home office in Milan, Italy. She speaks excellent English and handles video calls well.

FLEXIBILITY

Daniella is an educated chemical engineer, and the fact that she now is considered a health and safety expert, speaks for her ability to put on different roles within her skill set and ability. She has also worked in sales and as a project coordinator.

GROWTH MINDSET

She shows a great mindset to grow. As the COVID-19 situation came in 2020 to Italy she was quick to adopt her skillset to become an HS educator with a focus on managing businesses in times of the pandemic. She has held many different roles so she knows how to learn her trade. She has also obtained many important certifications throughout her career.

CV/ONLINE PROFILES

Daniella's LinkedIn profile is comprehensive with more than 20 years of experience being presented. She has also mentioned all her certifications and other accomplishments. With her extensive background, she did manage to put the most important aspects of it in her CV.

VOLUNTEERING

Daniella has not indicated any voluntary work.

RECOMMENDATION

Daniella's technical background comes from her educational background as a chemical engineer. Now she has a passion for health and safety. She has worked in many fields and her background is a real asset for many businesses and organizations.

One of her top strengths is her ability to understand the importance of health and safety, especially evident as she has worked for the pharmaceutical industry. Any company that has to deal with a lot of technical documentation and might want to make an impact in the pharmaceutical industry should consider Daniella on their team.

Report by Paul Arnesen