

Scott Stephens

04. June 2020

LOYALTY

Scott has been a loyal employee/partner with all his clients throughout the entirety of his career.

REMOTE FIT

Scott is a professional remote worker with a very good grasp of the international world of work. He has a very professional home office setup from his place in Phoenix, AZ. Scott has worked in international remote teams and as an individual freelancer.

FLEXIBILITY

Scott knows what there is to know within his professional field. In his professional career, he has been in many different positions. Managing director, tech writer, engineer, analyst, and consultant to mention some.

GROWTH MINDSET

The nature of the professional field Scott is a specialist in means he always needs to adapt his skills. He is a master of that and is constantly learning and doing online courses. He is a hands-on learner so he tests his skills in practice the moment he has the theoretical knowledge.

CV/ONLINE PROFILES

His LinkedIn profile is very good with plenty of details about his background and experience. He has some very good references from former colleagues. His CV is detailed and well structured.

VOLUNTEERING

Scott has not indicated any voluntary work.

OUR FEEDBACK

If you are looking for a senior and well-established software engineer Scott the perfect candidate. His background and experience are impressive. A graduate in computer science from 1987 means that you will get a lifetime of knowledge in your team or for your project.

For a startup with new innovative technology, Scott would be a great asset, or for an established company that wants to have someone with unique skills to take their business to the next level.

Scott is patient and emphatic, and works well with other, and is experienced in the Asian market is something companies there should be aware of and take advantage of.

---

Report by Paul Arnesen