Family members term plots as non-cultivable rocky pieces of land.

Following the incident, the state government had ordered a probe into the incident. On September 22-23, 2012, three dalits were killed and one seriously injured in police firing in Thangadh after they went to lodge a police complaint over a dalit's government waste land, "provide them cultivable agricultural land in the Thangadh region from the police officers in the case under various provisions of the IPC and Scheduled Castes, Prasad has submitted its report to the Home Department, however, its findings have not been made public. In the recently concluded Budget Session of Sanjay Prasad. Three of the accused police officers have been arrested in the episode, while Act. Three persons were killed and one was seriously injured in the firing rally in the run-up to the 2012 Gujarat Assembly elections. Jamnagar superintendent of police, Harikrishna Patel, who rushed to the spot at this year.