

Board services

There is a direct correlation between the composition and dynamics of the board of directors and an organisation's success.

Alumni is a leading advisor when it comes to non-executive board composition and dynamics. Our clients are found amongst the largest institutional owners as well as PE/VC firms and private ownership spheres.

Our services

Board review – The work of today's board of directors is transparent and in ever-increasing focus. Corporate governance is a dynamic area that is constantly under review, both nationally and globally, in order to meet the demands and expectations of all the various stakeholders. Our board review is tailored to the needs and expectations of the board and the future challenges, as well as taking previous assessments of the board's work into account. We provide actionable insights in performance-critical areas, analyse your current composition and provide concrete feedback to Chair and Directors as well as specific feedback to the CEO.

Board readiness programme – If you would like to be more confident in a board member role, improve your ability to contribute to the commercial success of the company and simultaneously broaden your own network – our Board readiness programme will be of interest to you. Learn the foundations of successful board work. Gain knowledge from people with deep expertise in board work. Become a part of Alumni's exclusive network. This program targets individuals who want a more robust foundation of knowledge, seeking to take on board roles or acting as owners or senior executives, working closely with the board.

Board recruitment – An effective board of directors with the right composition safeguards a company's development and supports as well as challenges the CEO. This applies to both large and small companies and organisations under different forms of ownership. We provide a professional and focused process that includes a full candidate pool. Our clients benefit from our genuine understanding of good corporate governance practices, board dynamics, and our network of candidates with a broad range of industrial, functional and geographical backgrounds. We are often a key partner for nominating committees with a sincere ambition to increase the multi-factor diversity of the boardroom.

Track record

We have successfully worked across many industry sectors each with their own specific needs and cultures. Our processes are tailor-made and adapted to suit the unique requirements in each assignment.
