TRIVIA NIGHT

Need ways to test your knowledge and have fun while doing it? Consider hosting a trivia night!

Team Size

This is an event that any size team can pull off.

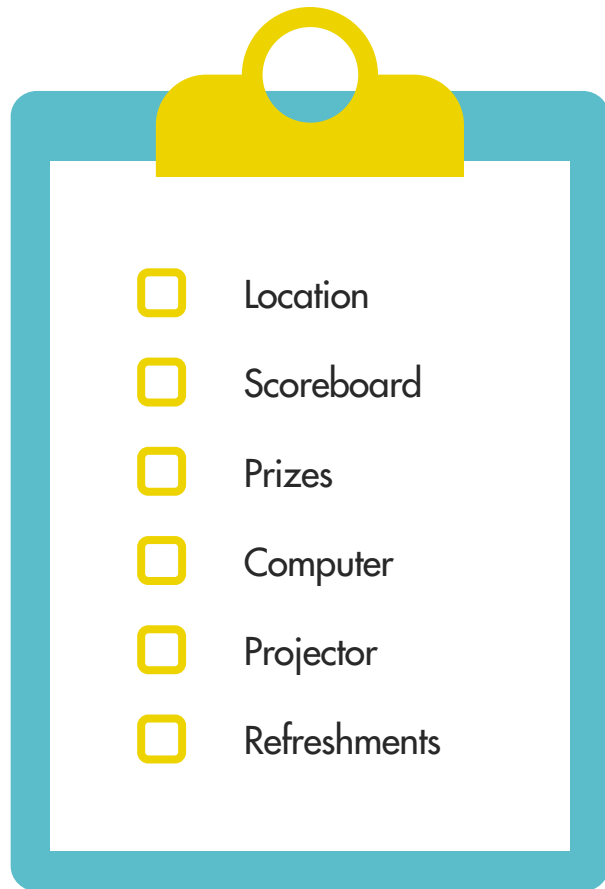

Time Frame

Depending on the scale, this event could take as little as a few days to plan or up to 3 weeks.

The Basics

Feel free to create your own quiz questions, but if you need some inspiration to get started, we have a few Kahoot games that you could easily use! Here are our Kahoot quizzes on Rescue Teams, LiNK Trivia, and North Korean History Trivia in Easy, Medium, and Hard levels.

Success Checklist!

There are a lot of ways to make this event your own, but you can use this checklist as a launch pad for your own creativity!

Promotion

Reach out to Asian Studies, History, or Political Science professors or teachers! Since it's an educational trivia night, they may be inclined to offer extra credit for the event or to the winning team.

At the very least, they may let you make an announcement about the event, so don't hold back from reaching out to these departments!

Our Recommendations

Each trivia team could pay a small entry fee and you can sell snacks and drinks to all attendees, whether they are participants or just bystanders.

Get Creative!

This event isn't limited to classrooms and living rooms. A lot of towns will have Trivia Nights or Bingo nights so reach out to the locations that are already hosting these events and see if they will let your team host the event one week or if the location will do a profit share when one of the categories is focused on the North Korea issue.
