I find it irrelevant. Instead of this you must write punjab. There is a mindset of punjabis that a daughter will sweep all the money in their wedding n other responsibilities.

Provide support through open discussion, specific groups/meetings, phone numbers of individuals who can help by providing information to make an informed and safe decision.

No

Provide gurbani references for such situations

This is a crime.

Dont knw

Through knowledge

Nothing

i don't know

By providing support options run by sangat.

Show that it is an option for women and advocate for those in need

Changing taboo on the subject and supporting women's reproductive Rights spread knowledge

Educate and provide support and advice on those seeking to abort and ensuring they can make an informed and rational decision based on their information provided. Provide workshops around what sikhi allows with respect to Bani what the gurus teach and practicalities of life situations.

Being a resource that can provide counseling and direction

Gurbani in modern era

Starting off by breaking the taboo around it through education and awareness. Simultaneously stress should also be laid on to ensure prevention of any consequential malpractice that may follow.

Give education of these things..if some one is actually in need then help those needy person.

I selected no

Ask Why they want an abortion and then help them get it done if they are not doing it for their convenience

If health issues then you can support

By studying the aspects of abortion.

Providing knowledge

no i dont think so

Religion should have no say in abortion

Support should only for medical reason or rape reason. Otherwise it should not be supported specially for gender selection.

Providing them knowledge of sikhizm and gender equality

Ok

By bringing awareness

Moral/emotional support; having an abortion is traumatic and difficult to rationalize.

By knowing the correct reason for abortion and after that guide them help them on correct manner

By changing the thinking of society.

They can help the female by getting the abortion where the identity and reason should be kept held and doctors should not be thrusting their morals on the female as if she has committed a sin.

i dot know

my answer is no because there is no debate on abortion in Sikhism..

We can talk to people and know the reason for considering abortion and guide them to the right path

Waheguru ji ka Khalsa waheguru ji ki Fateh We Sikhs must consult 5 piyaare (5 beloved ones) made by order of guru to solve issues related to abortion.Sikhi believe in gender equality.In case of rape incidents marriage can be solution to settle problems

By providing advices according to Gurbani

Try to find out the reason behind abortion, and support it if it is legit.

Ok

Don't know

My ans is no

By spreading awareness among people about gender equity

By aware people about their rights and laws regarding issue

1) Sikhi considers not the viewpoint of people or majority or say democratic principles / 2) Sikhi is of autocratic nature i.e. it values and considers only the "hukam" or the ordeal of the Guru. 3)Guru' edicts say that life and death is the Will of Creator so men and women have no right to dictate.

no not all

Ask for the reason and then try to provide with solution

Teach people equality of boys and girls

If it is unavoidable

no

First understand the woman's situation before judging her for wanting an abortion. Ensure that the woman understands other options than abortion (with not forcing a decision on her). If she needs financial help, Sikh institutions should consider assisting accordingly.

By reassuring them that if they decide to go through with it, they will not be shunned by the community

I don't think they should. But I think that having children early can limit a woman's financial freedom.

All my answers are based on what I have experienced while serving Thallasemic kids in various hospitals in New Delhi.Thalassaemia disease is more common among Punjabis and Sikhs.

People should be conscientize regarding ill acts they are going to do and even financial support can be given for upbringing of girl child . Community marriages should be promoted .

Tell them the Sikh opinion on it and give lectures in gurdwaras. Awareness on the issue is lacking within Sikh circles, especially those in India.

I do not think they should. But if they want to they can provide financial support.

Financial help and creating awareness

Moral values And human concept before even getting into any relationship supporting for women who have the desire to abort or talk to someone about abortion

Providing support via information, access to health counselors and a safe space for those who are considering in a non judgemental place. Abortion is a woman's choice and hers alone. She should be treated with respect

Providing information and advice to those considering abortion.

Counseling and putting forward sikh perspective through gurbani and history

Ardas/bani recitation for women feeling alone, connecting them with other Sikh women, protecting them for judgmental zealous who will seek to publicly shame them

Provide Ardaas and possibly kirtan ceremonies for those that seek spiritual salvation (pre and post abortion) and family planning guidance for those that seek economic guidance and safe practice of abortion.

Be open and help people in the process

By giving accurate and supportive advice and support that is not judgemental

By providing advice and counselling

I think if it is last option to save life of child and mother then sikh institutions should provide proper guidance to people

Offer social support for people with no support from family or friends. As in getting people to go with them to the appointment to abort the baby or offering psychological help

Sikh institutions can try to explain what Sikhi's perspective on abortion is and hopefully the person decides to change her mind

Educate. Guide. Practical reasoning helps instead of shunning the person away.

Find out if reason behind it is genuine than only she should get it dn

Counseling and support, potential financial aid to help raise baby if the reason for thinking about the abortion is due to financial issues, the after effects and mental state of the individual/individuals involved after the procedure , support groups

Help them explore the reason for abortion, help them understand their current situation and explore possible solutions/support so that they will reconsider their decision, do not be judgemental. We are not God to say whether its right/wrong, it something very personal and situational

No.

Sikh institutions should grow up and accept the fact that the world is changing. Why be so rigid.

By giving counsel to those women who wish to abort, counsel after abortion to survive the trauma

Medical support such as bills and information that is scientifically accurate.

By having open discussions relating to it, to begin with. And proceed with medical referrals and emotional/spiritual guide through religion (paath, kirtan, meditations). Perhaps even nutrition or diet referrals to help the body adjust.

Be a listening ear and not judge those / condemn those considering it

Moral support and understanding

Learned scholars who have counselling experience ready to gv advice.

Counseling and support groups

For starters, institutions do not need to take a stand on the issue, instead provide a helpline, contact, class, and counselling to empower the possible parents to make the right decision for themselves.

Creating a safe anonymous environment

NA

Not sure

Its personal, nothing to do with sikhi or sikh insititutions, sikhi isnt a western philosophy that bounds its followers by extreme rules, it is a path for the seeker

By providing a safe place for open conversation and discussion on the topic and allowing the individual the opportunity to make an informed decision.

create awareness among those seeking help in abortion or those confused about abortion,or as well help those individuals who are planning abortion but are financialy unstable

By providing education to poor Sikh children and help poor families financially

I don't know

Help financially if need be..

I did not reply "yes".

Yes

Offer counseling to come to informed decisions

Nobody has the right over her body except for her.

every single life has right to live even before they born

Remove the tabboos

Providing information as to where the religious position is. Women struggle with not knowing what may or may not be against their religion. More education.

Guidance from Gurbani, vounsellirs, decision support

By providing them proper education and through money

Access to information, options, support?

Financial and emotional support

First role that Gurudwara should play is findinh out the real reason behind abortion, if tye reason relates to the health of the mother or the featus then the institution can/should help with the process but ifbthe real reason is not related to the well-being rather its relates to female child

Awareness

When we take Amritsar our guru say no tie up with girl killer because I love my daughter in law and my daughter and grand daughter too

To make realize the need of abortion and whether to do or not.

There can be no generalization on abortion. If you're a family, then abortion should be done only in extreme cases where there are health issues with the mother. And if the couple are not married, then sikh institutions do not matter that much, the couple engaging in premarital is strictly abhorred prevention and to explore all venues to ensure the safety of the baby, mother and individuals involved. To not force another to commit the act of abortions or prevent, like it, as Sikhs our Guru is the way and consultation processes should be as such.

mental support

Maybe try showing them the importance of every life and that Waheguru Ji is in every form of life

Sessions should be there for regular information and education

Every life is special. Abortion should be allowed only if there are major health issues.

Tell how

No, exceptions should exist for cases such as rape

To provide all detail information about.

By having places that are safe, provide economic help and respect anonymity. Also, openly supporting and educating people about abortion being an option.

I think Sikh institutions can provide support by outlining what Sikhism's stance is on abortion; it would allow individuals to make a more informed choice. However this should be done in a non judgemental manner.

Provide an anonymous and safe environment for the woman to be able to discuss options for both adoption and abortion. It has to be in a very empathetic and non-judgmental manner.

If the reason is genuine..or the women is seriously going through something wrong... financial help and most important emotional support should be given

Provide sikhi source on the issue and possible alternatives to abortion

Institutions can help them get a safe and healthy procedure. Institutions can also connect people seeking abortion with local medical professionals. If need be, fund it (privately if it's politically not possible).

Information up at community places

Support and provide safe abortions

N/A

By giving them proper information so if they choose the abortion direction, it's informed choice not under duress

Help person to inform every pros and cons, mental help, emotion help effect on health

Through education

By creating awareness and health support

Guidance and support from a moral and religious standpoint. Taking into account circumstances

I mean I don't know but that wasn't an option. I don't know where we (Sikh) stand on the issue. I don't know of any local sikh institution that I would ever feel comfortable going to for help. I don't trust the information coming out of my local sikh institutions.

Just healing techniques from loss

Instead of jump simplifying it as female fortified issues and pointing silver fingers at others, the institutions need to look deeper the issues - prevalence of rape as a political tool, shame, changing culture and its connotations on different generational components of family and dig deeper

Give them counseling and financial aid

Give information of both sides of the argument

By providing counseling to women and provide mental support as well counselling women's friend, families who are not in support

Support the women, give them somebody to confide in or a shoulder to cry on

As an intuitive, I see that souls hover around the mother, visits the fetus, but finally merge with the body on the 120th day. With this understanding, abortion is no longer an issue if done before 20 weeks. At death, the body loses 21 grams. Perhaps that 21 grams is what mothers perceive.

Having an abortion can be isolating and due to stigma, women may not seek the supports they need such as health and counselling. Should also provide facts on abortion, that it is a choice to make and provide resources for safe abortions and health care. And provide resources re birth control.

Provide quotes or a document about Sikh perspectives on pro-choice (not necessarily abortion because that might be hard to find). This could help someone who is trying to make a decision or provide assurance for a decision they're about to make

Provide resources on what is available out there to help women, esp those who have been raped or face medical concerns with pregnancy, with regards to treatment options but also emotional and mental support.

By providing information on health issue to help make decision & financially whenever needed

Start dialogues about abortion in the community about its reason, consequences, choices and impacts on the individual, family and the community.

Be there to provide guidance if asked

By providing education.

to educate peoples but our religion say

I feel it's a very complicated issue that someone should never have to feel alone with the struggle. Whatever decision is made Sikhs should always be there for support, unbiased and true support.

Provide emotional support groups, denounce having abortions for female fetuses

Maybe create support groups or counselling for those considering so at least there's a safe space for those who wish to talk about how they feel about their pregnancy

They should not be involved

Financially, providing emotional health resources

By providing support/education/guidance AND NOT FORCING THEIR OPINION

N/A

Religion must not get involved or away a pregnant woman towards a certain choice. The decision is up to the woman and the woman alone.

Sikh institutions rather than dictating terms, should understand each scenario and provide the needed support. Each case should be addressed at it's own merit. Someone going for abortion because it's a girl should definitely be discouraged and someone needed abortion because of a health risk should

Help those getting for rape

Provide culturally relevant education to those choosing abortions in a confidential, safe way.

by giving assurances on what is right by Sikh religion teaching

An abortion is a difficult decision make have had to make, which at that point rarely takes into consideration the longterm emotional impact it may make. Religion often takes a back seat in such decisions as other perspectives appear more relevant then. Religious perspectives need to be highlighted

More dialogue

Tell the woman that it is her choice, don't push or persuade her in any direction. Let her know that having an abortion is not a sin or against Sikhism (in my opinion) and that her rights and will come first, rather than an unborn fetus, which is a huge debate in America. Be understanding of her.

Discussing it within community platforms, normalizing the conversation, having a safe space for those considering it

Rather than support, but helping the individual make their decision and exposing to reasons of both, how it relates to sikhi then supporting then whatever their choice ends up being.

Guidance, counseling & safe measures to do so

By outlining the laws, and gurus teachings, etc

Assist women in making this very important decision by helping them consider, when invited, the short and long term consequences of their decision and by supporting their final decision without reservation.

Start by giving them textual perspectives on the issue from Sri Guru Granth Sahib. If someone does indeed get an abortion, ensure that they are not stigmatized and offer mental health treatment and, if necessary, ensure access to adequate post-op medical treatment.

Providing excellent information for individuals benefit knowledge on how gender selection abortion is against sikhi, support to women who are pregnant due to being raped/financial aid, and providing knowledge to new Sikh couples on the taboo topics in our community such as protection, abortions and so forth

Counseling about when the soul enters the body of the fetus, on or about 120 days

Sikh institutions can help these individuals by providing education, based on Gurbani & Sikhi principles, when it comes to this matter. Granted it's no easy decision, institutions can become more compassionate & understanding as a whole to support & even guide the individuals.

Awareness of science and circumstances

No

Abortion is a mahapaap. Only idiots who dont listen to gurus hukam try to justify such manmat.

Provide a safe space for the individual to get emotional and spiritual support

Make them feel like a part of the community, take them in if need be

Counseling....and also spiritual outlook, as well as information of Sikh belief.

By providig community support and if possible using the community to locate and facilitat psychological/medical support.

Counseling.

By financial assistance or couselling on gender perspectives

mental wellness support + sangat support

Start by talking about it. It's a topic not really addressed in the community. There is not discussion about the Sikhi's perspective on abortion. Learning to differentiate between the viewpoint in Sikhi vs. Cultural perspectives (Punjabi culture, Indian culture, etc.)

Non judgment, safe place for support

Provide consultation on abortion from sikhi perspective

Note sure... but we should provide support and proved Sikhi pov. To help inform the individuals

If Sikhs want fewer abortions, we need to accept women and young women who get pregnant out of wedlock and make it clear that there is a place for them. We also need to make it clear that the mother will have practical support from her family and community.	2019-01-25 17:19:38	2019-01-25 17:24:24
I think Sikh institutions should refer people to women's health organizations who have the appropriate resources for women considering abortion. I don't think gurdwaras should have a say in a woman's right to choose and in fact should probably stay out of the matter all together.	2019-01-25 17:16:59	2019-01-25 17:19:49

Provide education and support to the woman. Abortion shouldn't be for convenience however for many woman that may get pregnant out of wedlock their is no other option. I think there shouldn't be non-judgmental support for sikh woman to understand their choice.	2019-01-25 12:54:26	2019-01-25 13:00:28

De stigmatized conversations about abortion.	2019-01-25 12:51:43	2019-01-25 12:55:49
Sikhi and abortion should not be connected together. Sukh institutions should support the individual by not criticizing or stigmatizing abortion or the person who gets abortion done. No one knows the circumstances of the woman who goes for abortion.	2019-01-25 12:49:51	2019-01-25 12:55:21

My answer is no

By learning the root cause for the decision (such as rape, abuse, trauma, financial, gender selection etc). Based on the reasoning Sikh institutions provide support and guidance without bias, stereotypes and judgment.

Providing with information

Counselling and financial support if needed

Counselling

Do not make women life more miserable

Refer them to a physician.

They should be discouraged from undergoing the procedure and given all moral and other support.

By supporting the woman's decision

Provide education and support.

By creating dialogue around why women may choose to have an abortion and talking about the lack of resources that often lead women to make this decision

Guidance and options

Just provide them with resources to safely get the procedure in addition to mitigating their many emotions at a difficult time.

Na

n/a

appoint best qualified, sensitive counsellors of cities in gurudwara sahibs, create and show live examples of how sikhs threat their women. My sister faced this, but nobody helped her in that disaster. Just talk will not help, create an example.

It may help to even listen and talk to someone in need. All for the purpose of invoking love for the new life.

By guiding the concerned couple through the light of gurbani and making them understand the importance and sanctity of sexual relationship between a Sikh man and a Sikh woman. That relationship is not just for fun purposes but the one which has been established by the guru himself.

By Playing Role of ideal Family

Sikh institution should arrange consulting sessions to help them

Start w sex education

Giver and taker of Life is Waheguru. No one else should have that right.

Should not be involved. It's a personal decision of the woman.

Foeticide & pre birth sex determination is a primary cause of forced abortions especially of female unborn children mainly abetted by in laws. We need to sensitize our community that it makes no difference if the offspring is girl or boy. We should rather be proud of our girls.

Provide counselling and help to think through the issues

Awareness towards no blame on woman only. Provides mental health support

I said no, so no answer

Provide a knowledgeable person to talk to, who knows about long term financial, emotional, and societal implications of going forward or not.

Counseling and directing them to appropriate resources

Education and non judgemental support and discussions

Aim to tackle the root issues as to why the abortion is being considered. If these cannot be alleviated, provide guidance around the relevant benefits and considerations. Post that. If the decision has been made, aim to provide spiritual support in the aftermath.

Telling them the sikh point of view, Different complications involved. if necessary how to cope up with the emotional stress

Have an open conversation about abortion

Sikhs

Educate and financial support

By hearing and by giving suggestions

Based on acceptance for all, why are pregnant women be considered not acceptable to provide support. Support in terms of stay, guidance, protection and financial if possible

Doubt Sikh institutions are mature enough atm !

Probe for reasons, provide moral or financial support wherever possible. Speak to family members to provide support in every way.

Social worker / outreach worker

Mental / Financial Support.

There are a lot of ways that as an institution they can help. To start with, they can establish a support system where a woman who is considering this option will be provided with the help of counselling with professionals (Psychologists etc) as the women at this points is also going through certa

Education

Give guidance as per Gurbani. Talk on issue during Deewan. Setting up helpline numbers and avail medical and psychological consultation to women.

Until Kaur's play a more dominant role in them, they should stay out of the topic.

Empathize and understand the reason for their consideration. Educate if it's gender related or financial. Provide support if it's due to adverse conditions.

Policy

Guiding them with sympathy and understanding. Sikhi beleives are very important and it is beleived that life is in every grain and particle. It is a very difficult choice. As per Sikhi the most important is to be thankful for what you have & more thankful for what you haven't got.

Counselling, acceptance and openness

Access to medical care

Education on how families can be supported better when considering abortion.

It's a taboo subject and perhaps not accepted as a 'Sikh' response to the situation. But the reality is it does happen and whatever the reason, we should offer care and support etc. to the women and families affected by this.

Counselling about positive and negative perspectives as regards medical and social consequences and religion should not be criteria to stop it

Education regarding the gurmat perspective of the fetus and abortion and the consequences of the decision; viable alternatives such as help with organizing adoption)

Counseling

Safe discussions

Inform youth of what Sukhi teaches on the topic.

Councilling

No idea

By not shaming/shunning those who have to get abortions

Offer support and counselling to all mothers separately, and then family separately. Sikhi does not interfere with social life of an individual but allows individual to make his/her own choice. So whatever the decision of an individual, whether they need support, Sikhi should be there to provide it.

I think it would obviously be good for people to get support from wherever, be it a Sikh institution or not. But I think we should work more to get government support. I think it should be more of a secular issue and organized religion maybe should stay neutral and provide support if necessary.

Counseling and emotional support

Be supportive and non judgemental towards womem and abortions

By supporting mothers in what is clearly a very difficult decision for many. It could also do well to reinforcing and empowering women to make this decision instead of surrogate family members (ie men) making this decision for them.

It's a personal choice, a very intimate one at that. Moral support should be given if asked

NA

By being respectful to a woman's decision.

simply showing acceptance for the choice,and emphasizing that Sikhi does not preach against it. However, female infanticide - which is rooted in sexism, patriarchy, discrimination against females - this should be spoken against, as it is against Sikhis principle of equality

By de-stigmatizing abortion, recognizing that it is a woman's right to decide. Also, unfortunately, people think only the woman chooses to abort due to gender selection. We need to start having a conversation about how these beliefs are conditioned (internalized oppression)&pressure on women

Let them know that it is there right and the institutions are there to provide counseling if they need any and also before adoption understanding the reason for adoption and suggesting alternative options if viable

Na

By being accepting of circumstances and not being judgemental

Provide resources and help in making a decision.

I think that womengoing through these issues need a lot of mental support and spirituality to help them heal because often times they do this due to extenuating circumstances so giving them a Sikh base to fall back on can give them the support they need to get through this

Morale support professional help

For those needing financial support, provide financial support. Providing counselling for those who need it.

Sometimes abortions may be a choice to save the baby from a lifetime of illness and hardship. It is still a loss to the family. Sikh institutions can provide support in scripture and spirituality and teach the community to remain non judge mental to people's individual decisions .

N/A

N/a

Proper support and care for women. No judgement.

Na

Education on the process; counseling/support for women seeking abortion to help support their choice

By spreading awareness, letting people know Guru Granth Sahibs prospective on such matters,if we will be able to do it so then we won't have to discuss such matters.

Education, support, counselling (for parties of conflicting opinion if needed), Sikhi based literature, access to multiple Sikhi perspectives, support for thise who may have no one else to turn to regardless of final decision

I don't believe using Sikhism's broad values to make a yes or no statement on abortion is appropriate. Sikh RI should let women know this is a personal choice and that they should not feel guilty of whatever choice they make, unless that choice involves gender selection.

Helping folks access safe resources to have an abortion (ex: planned parenthood), reducing stigma

Support in the decision without judgement

Make sure Sikhs know that this against gurmat and basically murdered, punj pyare and guru sahib can never forgive us for muredrt

By providing empowered to women who might be considering abortion due to societal expectations, financial reasons, rape/incest or pressure from family to have male gendered child. For example if the women is feeling pressured, providing her counselling, resources to understand her own worth.

Spiritual support for whatever the woman's decision

Providing information and public support for pro-choice organizations and advocates first of all the abortion question is inherently inside the role of sexuality in our society. So sikh institution she should start with encouragingly sexuality to stay in its rightful place of marriage where an encouragingly atmosphere for child rearing can be nurtured.

Privacy, financial support and counseling.

Counseling, financial resources, medical recommendations

Remind the pregnant person that it is their body and their choice. Listen to their concerns about continuing pregnancy and their concerns about terminating. Help them resolve any challenges or blocks getting in the way of what they want. Supports for single parents, or counselling not to feel guilt

Provide information on where safe places are to have an abortion	2019-01-23 23:16:02	2019-01-23 23:20:52
Abortion does not have to be a sinful act. Sinful acts are those including rape/molestation, which can lead and force women into undergoing dangerous 'under the table' abortions operations. Educating that abortion is sometimes justified is key.	2019-01-23 22:48:36	2019-01-23 23:06:45

Sikh institutions can help women in our communities by providing support for the right to choose. Women should have sole ownership over their bodies. My body, my choice.
