Dental claims processing solution designed for Canadian Insurance Companies

Improve your customer experience by quickly processing dental claims.

Manually processing claims from paper or digital images prevents claims processing teams from achieving or exceeding their targets.

Claims processing is a time-consuming activity that involves matching a claimant's information against internal systems, ensuring that dental procedure codes are properly captured, and that coordination of benefits are appropriately processed.

Processing dental claims involves knowledge workers familiar with the enrollment of new claimants and the activities around entering information about a claim being processed.
