Parent Support Partners are parents who have personal experience with various systems such as DCS and behavioral health. Your own Parent Support Partner can help you:

- Increase your communication in a positive and effective manner to help you navigate the behavioral health, juvenile justice or child welfare systems and learn about your rights and responsibilities
- Enroll in services and prepare for meetings and court hearings
- Learn new skills that support you and your parenting
- Connect to natural and community support

Attention Dads! Dad Together recognizes that it isn't always easy for fathers to find the support they need. There is great value in fathers sharing their perspectives, knowledge, and experience and learning in their own "dad language." Men can learn to:

- Resolve conflict safely by learning conflict resolution strategies
- Manage child behavior lovingly
- Learn nurturing parenting skills for dads/men

Virtual Meeting Options are available
