RE: Hourly, Inc. Business Activities

Dear Ms. Hodder:

Based on the information provided, it does not appear that a Nebraska Money Transmitter license would be required for the proposed business activities. Importantly, it is up to the company to periodically review the business activities and any changes in law which may necessitate licensure.

This is not a legal opinion; it is based upon the description of the activities as provided in your submission; it is limited to the issues and facts presented; it is not intended to address other fact patterns or additional issues that may develop; it is issued for your information and, accordingly, is not binding upon the Department and does not provide protection from liability; it is not intended as, or should be construed as legal advice. The existence of any additional material facts, and/or any change in the facts as sent may affect the validity of our response.

If you have any questions, please contact the Money Transmitters Counsel at the Department at dob.consumerfinance@nebraska.gov or (402) 471-2171.

Sincerely,

Christopher German
Money Transmitters Counsel
