What are Notifications?
EDREADY NOTIFICATIONS OVERVIEW

Notifications alert teachers and/or administrators to specific student behavior without having pull reports.

- Want to be notified when students complete their Initial Diagnostic?
- Be alerts if a student is taking topic tests over and over again but not studying.
- How to be alerted to a student that hasn’t completed their Initial Diagnostic after joining your goal?
- Be informed when students hit their target score.

Allows users to be alerted to unusual testing behavior, flagging students that have tested a specified amount of times for a topic. The Learn time is not considered for this alert.

This is the only alert that has a student-facing message

- Number of Tests

A student will trigger the notification if they test the specified number of times for a topic.
Notification Setup
Option 1: Study Path
Options tab
1. Find the goal of interest & click the View Study Paths link
2. Find the scope of interest and click the Configure link
ACCESS STUDY PATHS (GOAL + SCOPE)

Option 2: Goals Tab
1. Edit the goal of interest
2. Open the goal’s Scopes tab
3. Click on the Configure link to access that scope’s study path options settings
Click on the Notifications button above the Test Settings and Messaging tabs.

A pop-up window will appear where you can configure the Notification.
In the pop-up window, you can configure a new Notification:

- Select the Type of Notification to add
  - Milestone Achievement
  - No Milestone Progress
  - Learning Testing Ratio

- Customize the Name and input a message to the teacher

- Select a time interval; if same time interval is desired for multiple notifications of the same type all can be created at the same time
TEST ATTEMPT NOTIFICATIONS

- From the Study Path Options:
- Click on the Messaging tab
- Click the Edit link for the Post-diagnostic > End Of Topic message
- At the bottom of the page, click the Attempt Messaging button
- Click the Add a new message button to add an Attempt Message
SUBSCRIBING TO NOTIFICATIONS

IMPORTANT! Users must Subscribe to any Notifications on their Study Paths before they will start receiving triggered messages.
You can access notifications from two different locations:

- The green bar will show on your reports dashboard when new notifications are available. Click the View link to be taken to the My Notifications page.
- The My Notifications menu is always available in your account dropdown.
