

YOU'RE INVITED TO JOIN THE ATLAS LEGACY SOCIETY

The Atlas Society presents the empowering principles of Objectivism to a global audience, and offers those principles as a rational and moral alternative in the marketplace of philosophical ideas. As we have for three decades, The Atlas Society remains a strong advocate for the philosophy of reason, achievement, individualism, and freedom.

You can help to ensure future generations learn about the values that foster a free and prosperous society by donating to The Atlas Society through your estate plans.

To increase your philanthropic impact by making a revocable gift -- which doesn't require any upfront commitment of cash or other assets -- consider an estate gift through your will, living trust or other beneficiary accounts. These gifts may be structured in a variety of ways, but may provide a deduction at your passing, thereby reducing the potential for the imposition of an estate tax.

> Bequest in a Will

Designate a dollar amount or a percentage of your remaining estate for The Atlas Society by placing the following simple language in your will: "I give, devise, and bequeath to The Atlas Society $___ dollars (or ___%) as unrestricted funds to be used for general purposes."

> Life Insurance Beneficiary

You can contribute all or part of a policy to The Atlas Society while still retaining ownership of the policy and having access to its cash value. If you have questions about how this works, we encourage you to talk with your insurance provider about designating The Atlas Society as a beneficiary.

> Retirement Plans

Retirement plans are another easy way to make a planned gift while also maximizing tax savings. Through your retirement plan provider, you can designate The Atlas Society as a full or partial beneficiary and name the specific amount or percentage you wish to give.
