

OCTAL TEAM CAPTURES THE SPIRIT OF OMAN WITH 48th RENAISSANCE DAY PHOTO COMPETITION

Salalah, July 2018 – Commemorating Oman’s 48th Renaissance Day, OCTAL organized a special event for its employees to reflect on the achievements of the Sultanate guided by His Majesty Sultan Qaboos bin Said. In addition to having a traditional Omani food and dress corners, the company also recognized the winners of a photo competition dedicated for employees with the theme ‘What does Oman’s Renaissance Day mean to you?’

Speaking during the celebration, Ahmed Al Najjar, Director of Government Affairs at OCTAL, said, “Guided by His Majesty, Oman planted the seeds of growth 48 years ago with a dream to create a sophisticated globalized economy and today, it is harvesting a healthy crop that promises continued progress led by a strong manufacturing sector. At OCTAL, we are proud to be at the forefront of this significant sector that supports the nation’s focus and momentum in diversifying the economy.”

He added, “Today, we are celebrating 48 years of prosperity under the wise leadership of His Majesty. The photo competition is meant to inspire, engage and celebrate the creativity of our team, in order to capture the true spirit of Oman.”

OCTAL is a major supporter to the Sultanate’s economic diversification strategy with significant contributions to In-Country-Value. The company is committed to creating long-term value for Oman that extends beyond diversification, positioning the Sultanate at the forefront of the manufacturing industry and a hub of excellence for knowledge-transfer and innovative technology in sustainable and environmentally responsible rigid packaging solutions.
