A modern kitchen with white cabinetry, a marble island, and built-in ovens. The kitchen features a clean, minimalist design with white upper and lower cabinets. A large, white marble island with a subtle vein pattern is positioned in the foreground. On the island, there is a white, bowl-shaped sink with a modern, curved chrome faucet. The countertop is a light-colored, solid material. In the background, a built-in oven with a black glass door and a stainless steel frame is visible. Above the oven, a stainless steel range hood is mounted. The backsplash is a light-colored, solid material. The floor is made of light-colored wood. The overall lighting is warm and ambient, with recessed lights under the cabinets and a small light on the ceiling.

THE ART OF KITCHEN CURATION

NIICO prides itself on a personalized and efficient approach to customer service. Your entire experience, from initial consultation to project completion, will be handled with attention to detail and proficiency.

CONTEMPORARY

Each project begins with a personal consultation and space evaluation with one of NIICO's skilled designers, appropriately suited to the taste and style of the client. Whether or not there is an existing vision, the designers are more than happy to work with the client to produce a plan that reflects their wishes and budget.

TRADITIONAL SUBHEADING

With an estimated timeline of eight to 10 weeks from inception to completion, depending on complexity, no detail is overlooked. When the build is complete, the pieces are fitted together like a jigsaw in their proper space and final measurements are taken to ensure the millwork pieces together seamlessly.

A close-up photograph of a white, ornate cabinet door. The door features a complex, carved design with multiple curved, overlapping panels. A brass knob with a textured, circular face is mounted on the left side of the door. The lighting is soft, highlighting the intricate details of the carvings and the metallic sheen of the knob.
