

The GREAT FISH

in Jonah 1:17-2:10 was / is ...

"Now the LORD had prepared a great fish to swallow Jonah. And Jonah was in the belly of the fish three days and three nights. Then Jonah prayed to the LORD his God from the fish's belly." (Jonah 1:17-2:1)

"Those who regard worthless idols forsake their own Mercy. But I will sacrifice to You with the voice of thanksgiving; I will pay what I have vowed. Salvation is of the LORD. So the LORD spoke to the fish, and it vomited Jonah onto dry land." (Jonah 2:8-10)

**

able to

safely swallow Jonah

(Agree? yes, no, partly)

also in

Matthew 12:40

(Agree? yes, no, partly)

**

closely linked to

the great storm (1:4)

(Agree? yes, no, partly)

demonstrating that

the Lord alone is God

(Agree? yes, no, partly)

evidence of the Lord's patience & grace

(Agree? yes, no, partly)

foreshadowing

Jesus' resurrection

(Agree? yes, no, partly)

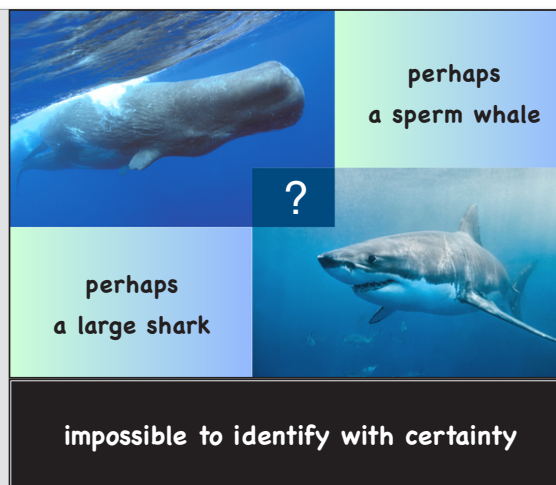

**

God's

fish rather than a fish god

(Agree? yes, no, partly)

Descriptive

Meditation

God's special

provision for Jonah

(Agree? yes, no, partly)

mocked

by proud skeptics

(Agree? yes, no, partly)

necessary for

multiple reasons

(Agree? yes, no, partly)

not described

in great detail

(Agree? yes, no, partly)

prepared by God

like the plant and worm

(Agree? yes, no, partly)

quick to

obey the Lord (2:10)

(Agree? yes, no, partly)

**

significantly different from

the lowly worm (4:7)

**

strikingly
different from
the bears in 2 Kings 2:24

used to oppose

idolatry (Dagon) (2:8-9)

(Agree? yes, no, partly)

Directions: after reading through Jonah and the notes in a good study Bible, consider and discuss the various ways that the great fish that swallowed Jonah is described above. Do you agree with the various points? How would you change some of them? — At the end, discuss the most important descriptive phrases and make some personal applications. In doing so, think about the Lord's purposes in using the great fish and how this relates to the storm in chapter one and the plant in chapter four that God also used. The Lord used his creation to oppose idolatry and rebellion. How then should we use creation in our ministries? © 2022 by Jon F. Mahar, Hakusan City, Japan and Alexander, Maine, U.S.A.

Why did the Lord use a great fish?

God could have saved his wayward prophet by other means, such as with a floating log and divinely directed wind. Alternatively, God could have sent an angel to protect Jonah like he did for Daniel. So why did he use a great fish?

Jesus' words in Matthew 12:40 show that one of God's purposes in putting Jonah in the tomb-like belly of the great fish for three days was to foreshadow the resurrection. Surviving three day at sea with the help of a log would not have foreshadowed the resurrection as well.

In addition, the connection between the great storm (1:4) and the great fish (1:17) shows that the Lord is God rather than Baal, the so-called storm god, or Dagon whose name in Hebrew sounds much like the word for fish. In line with this, it is significant that idolatry is strongly condemned near the end of chapter two (2:8-9).

Was it a great fish or a whale?

We do not know, since it is not described in detail and because the terms used could refer to either. A sperm whale is often suggested since its throat is wide enough to swallow a man whole. Various filter feeders such as humpback whales and whale sharks have large mouths but their throats are too narrow to swallow anything very large. In addition, the great fish may, of course, have been a large sea creature which is now extinct. If so, it may have been somewhat like Leviathan (study #5).

Why isn't the great sea creature described in detail?

The main reason is probably because the focus was primarily on Jonah and the Lord. There may be another reason, however. By limiting the description, the key Hebrew term "dag," meaning fish or fish-like creature, stands out more. This, in turn, may have pointed to Dagon, the god that was worshipped by many in the Euphrates valley as well as by the Philistines.

Dagon could not save anyone (2:8), but the Lord who made all things could use a dag, a fish or a whale, to save Jonah if He chose to do so. The great fish was God's fish rather than a fish god.

What kind of false god was Dagon?

Some point out that the Hebrew term for grain also sounds much like Dagon. So many scholars believe that Dagon was an agricultural god rather than a fish god. Ok, but why couldn't Dagon have been both? Most idolaters mix various ideas lest they overlook something that would help them in some way (Acts 17:23). In addition, in chapter four, the Lord is the One who makes plants grow (4:6) and the One who cared about livestock (4:11). So the Lord is to be worshipped rather than Dagon or any another idol, including those shaped like a calf that Jeroboam sat up. (See Second Chronicles 11:14-15.)

How should we apply this study?

First, the main message of Jonah is against idolatry, which is associated with covetousness (Col. 3:5). So we should not lust after things. Second, like Jonah, we should point to the Lord through his testimony in creation. Storms, great fish, helpful plants, livestock, and even lowly worms (4:7) all still point to the Lord today. Third, we should speak of the resurrection of the Lord Jesus, the greatest of all miracles.