The Power of an Exceptional Mobile App

Business travel can be a challenge to organize and manage. That's why — if a company wants happy travelers, efficient and effective trips, and high rates of travel policy compliance — it's important to offer a solution that gives travelers quick, convenient access to all the booking tools and itinerary information they need in a package they'll enjoy and actually use. One that works on the go.

The award-winning Deem Mobile is different from other corporate travel apps. Deem delivers the ultimate user experience with cutting edge features in a stunning design that's accessible as well as convenient and intuitive to use.

Deem Mobile allows travelers to book flights, hotels, rental cars, and even Uber rides all in one place. It enables simplified expense tracking and robust insights that help travel managers forecast a more complete and accurate estimate of costs. Features like Travel SafetyCheck and EcoCheck empower users to make safer and climate-conscious choices while booking. And it's only the beginning.

Read on for six ways the Deem Mobile app enables seamless corporate travel.

1. Book Flights, Hotels, and Rental Cars

From neighborhood safety considerations to sustainable travel information, Deem manages to provide more details during the booking process than other travel apps, while maintaining an unmatched level of simplicity. Travelers can use the app to search for and book flights, hotels, and car rentals — a combination that over 25% of mobile corporate booking solutions can't claim, according to GBTA. Travelers can also sort or filter by results that fall within your company's policy, making compliance and expense management efficient and easy.

2. Cancel or Modify Booked Trips

Travelers can also manage bookings directly in the app, allowing for the flexibility they need when traveling for business. Perhaps they booked a flight and car rental through Deem for a one-day trip, but at the last minute, a change in the meeting schedule means they'll need to stay the night. With the Deem Mobile app, it's easy to add a hotel and change your flight, and the company's travel manager can see these changes as they happen. Travelers can also cancel one or more aspects of a trip directly in the app.

3. Quickly Reference an Itinerary

Having itinerary details that are easily accessible, particularly in moments that are hurried and hands are full, is a must on any trip. That's why Edit Mobile allows travelers to view flight, hotel, and car rental information on one page. All the details are easy to spot, including addresses, flight information, and check-in times. Travelers can even share an itinerary with the tap of a button, ensuring their company's travel manager, and anyone else who needs to know where they'll be and when, can follow along on the trip.

4. Search and Book Uber Rides

Depending on the trip, it may be convenient to skip car rental. Uber for Business and Deem enables travelers to schedule ride hail where their other travel details already are. Deem makes it easy to weave ground transportation in with other travel plans. With visibility into a travelers' entire schedule, Deem automatically sends reminders to book a ride at exactly the right times. Having ride hail reservations alongside the other trip details means that if a traveler needs to change plans, they can cancel their Uber reservation directly in the app. For travel managers, booking ride hail through Deem provides greater insight into the real costs of traveler mobility.

5. See Travel SafetyCheck Scores

One of the greatest considerations for both traveler and travel manager is safety. With Travel SafetyCheck, neighborhood safety scores are visible to travelers right in the booking flow, so they can filter hotel search results to help ensure they're booking in a neighborhood where they'll feel safer. Travelers can view information such as levels of reported crime, women's and LGBTQ+ safety, and more. SafetyCheck also includes travel and cleaning protocols for car rentals. And it can show maps of current and historic Covid-19 levels.

6. Use EcoCheck Sustainability Scores

As companies consider ways to help the environment, corporate travel policies and tools come to mind. Deem Mobile can help. EcoCheck is a powerful carbon emissions impact assessment solution. EcoCheck enables travelers to make more sustainable travel decisions by showing the level of CO2 emissions expected for flights, hotels, and car rentals in a contextual way. Travelers can more easily understand the real impact of available choices and be empowered to make booking decisions that align well with their values. EcoCheck also displays sustainability scores and independently verified eco certifications for hotels.

With a simple, organized user experience and industry-leading features, Deem is ready to change the way you do business travel.
