ABOUT

Stephenie Greene's expertise in taxation and tax research and analysis, combined with her keen communication skills, make her an asset to clients across various industry sectors. With over 12 years of accounting experience, Stephenie took on the role as tax manager in 2017. She guides various small-to-middle market companies and partnerships through both their easiest or most complicated issues. Her daily key responsibilities include client contact, development and training of staff, review of tax returns and forms, research and analysis of various technical topics relevant to clients' individual issues and challenges, and billing review.

Prior to joining the firm, Stephenie spent five years working at two global firms in Atlanta as a tax manager. "I enjoy a good challenge, and I feel that public accounting is an ever changing and complicated field to work in," Stephenie says. "New challenges arise from both a changing market, and from the various challenges our clients face while growing and developing their businesses."

Relatively new to Chattanooga, Stephenie is excited to continue new restaurants and activities in the scenic city. She enjoys exploring the city with her husband, David, and two labs, Zoey and Zella. She is a huge sports fan and enjoys time spent traveling or on the lake.
