JOSH MOORE

BA (H) DESIGN FOR FILM & TV

After returning home from travelling, I worked for a year as a delivery driver, realising this was not what I wanted from a career. Nottingham Trent University offered me the opportunity to combine my passions for cinema and design, channelling them into multiple employable skills. I've spent three years carrying out extensive research, from landmark historical events to the time and region-specific, never-ending variables of paper sizes. All of which has helped conceptualise and inform my project designs. From my questionable visualisations in first year, I have progressed beyond my own belief using, and developing skills in a range of professional software's. Looking forward I would like to travel the world working in art departments, draughting, building or designing.
