

CHRISTOS ENGLEZOU

BA (H) FILMMAKING

Born in the crystal-clear waters of Cyprus and surrounded by a sea of ignorant people Christos decided to start a new chapter as a queer Filmmaker in the UK. His souls need for holistic healing and love for fashion and performance brought filmmaking into his life. Having the privilege to work as a 3rd AD for “Hood: A legend reborn” by Adam Collins to directing his own music videos and being the cinematographer in various fashion projects, Christos has always put 100% of who he is in his work. He recently co-directed his final year film “Self-talk, Honey” an experimental fashion documentary that explores the intricacies of how three individuals have shaped their aesthetics along their personal journeys towards self-love. His consciousness and creativity are his biggest strengths, and he wants to use them to bring authenticity, emotional intelligence, and holistic healing into a world full of artificial intelligence.
