

CAPABILITY STATEMENT

The Center for Justice Research is devoted to providing pragmatic solutions guided by the most effective research approaches and sensitivity to client needs. Continually commended for their adaptive approach to criminal justice reform efforts, the Center for Justice Research's team of dedicated researchers bring culturally responsive insight and practical answers to the issues that continue to challenge the criminal justice system.

WORLD-CLASS TALENT MATCHED TO SPECIFIC PROBLEMS OR NEEDS

The Center for Justice Research's multidisciplinary staff, rich in substantive expertise and practical experience, develop and apply the latest research methods and tools to solve complex problems across the criminal justice policy and carceral landscape.

LASER-FOCUSED ON CREATING MEANINGFUL IMPACT

With the support of our sponsors, partners, advocates, government and community leaders, the Center for Justice Research continues to make significant progress in continuing their mission to reduce mass incarceration through targeted, culturally responsive, evidence-supported solutions and strategic engagements.

TRUSTED SOURCE OF IDEAS, EXPERTISE, & ANALYSIS

The research team at the Center for Justice Research often works alongside decision makers, applying the highest standards for scientific rigor and objectivity to ensure independent, reliable, and practical policy recommendations. They are continually sought out as subject matter experts within the field of criminal justice.

COMMITMENT TO ADVANCING THE PUBLIC GOOD

Research, solutions, and recommendations from the Center for Justice Research extend beyond the formal product to include a commitment to wide dissemination of results and the transfer of skills, tools, and knowledge. The Center for Justice Research is committed to linking stakeholders, improve decision making, and advance the public good — free of commercial, partisan, and ideological bias.

The Center for Justice Research works with a wide-reaching spectrum of public, private, local, philanthropic, and federal collaborators around the country, including:

GOVERNMENT AGENCY PARTNERSHIPS

The Center for Justice Research provides services to government agencies around the United States. The team also regularly supports funded research and development projects that assist government agencies with scientific research, analysis, and development.

STATE & LOCAL ADVISORY SUPPORT

The Center for Justice Research partners with local communities to help identify and understand problems to define actionable solutions. Within the criminal justice arena, the Center for Justice Research uses a bottom-up approach when executing research and always involves key stakeholders who typically would not have a seat at the table. The team regularly shares data with government policymakers to shape forward-looking policies for a more just future for their constituents.

PRIVATE SECTOR ENGAGEMENT

In several cases, the Center for Justice Research partners with private sector institutions to provide valuable strategic advice and operational recommendations, particularly in areas where the public and private sectors converge.

PHILANTHROPIC SECTOR

The Center for Justice Research helps put the policy pieces together for the foundation of community, as well as generate innovative ideas and evidence-based options for philanthropic efforts seeking to make a difference on important policy challenges. We regularly work with community activist, criminal justice advocates, and thought leaders to address major challenges impacting their communities at large.
