The Challenges of Ministry in Such a Time as This

The last few years of ministry have challenged every church member, spiritual seeker and leader to look and experience challenges and changes in new ways. This week will engage some ways of understanding the challenges of our times with the long-view of Biblical and theological perspectives as well as research about how human beings operate under stress and change in families and organizations.

The course will be offered Monday through Thursday from 10 am to noon and 1pm to 3 pm. For those interested, an enrichment program to prepare people to lead Healthy Congregations workshops will be offered from 3:30 to 5:30 each day of the class. There is an additional cost for materials used during the enrichment offering.

Monday: Engaging Ministry in Today's Crucible of Change

Tuesday: Your Parents (and Great-Grandparents) are Present in Every Meeting

Wednesday: Think in Threes: What do triangles have to do with it?

Thursday: Living Thoughtfully in Chaotic Times

Emlyn A. Ott has served as a parish pastor, pastoral counselor, campus pastor, congregational and denominational consultant, writer, seminary professor and non-profit director during over 30 years of ordained ministry in the ELCA. She enjoys music, hiking, and has spent the last two years reembracing her early childhood love of tap dancing. Her work with systems has led her to explore her family roots and relationships and to subject her family to many curious questions along the way. She and her spouse, Robert Ward, enjoy watching Ted Lasso, doing joint word puzzles and listening to the Cleveland Orchestra. They live in Columbus, Ohio with their family where Bob oversees the choral program at OSU and Emlyn directs Healthy Congregations, Inc.
