

LUMOS DEBATE FAQ

How many students will there be per class?

All of our classes have a maximum class size of twelve students with a 6:1 student-teacher ratio. Instructors will make sure every child gets lots of speaking time and individual coaching!

Lumos sounds serious and academic — will my child actually have fun?

Yes! Our mission is to make public speaking fun. Every day is full of exciting, interactive activities and games for our students!

What if my kid is shy?

Lumos is a great program for shy or quiet students, who particularly benefit from friendly instructors and our 6:1 student-teacher ratio!

What happens if my child decides they don't like it? This is quite rare — by the end of the first day, students usually can't wait to come back. However, we do offer a full refund guarantee, just in case!

Can I request to have my child in the same class as their friend?

Yes! We encourage friends to sign-up together for Lumos sessions. Having a friend really helps students feel comfortable and open up. When you register, you'll see an option to request a friend in the same class. Our education directors will make sure they're put in the same class!

What materials are required?

Notebook, pens/pencils, notebook and laptop or tablet, if available.

How do you group the students?

Students get split based on their age and experience into classes of twelve students!

What happens if my child decides they don't like it?

This is quite rare — by the end of the first day, students usually can't wait to come back. However, we do offer a full refund guarantee, just in case!
