

LDC Advisory Network Reception: Austin Chapter September 3, 2018

The Latino Donor Collaborative was founded to promote insight into the valuable contributions American Latinos make in fields like politics, commerce, and entertainment.

The LDC's foundation begins with influential Latinos from business, media, and entertainment, engaging in great discussion with national business and civic leaders about fact-based data on how Latinos are driving the economy.

- The LDC connects with business leaders through local chapters and receptions in various cities nationwide.
- The LDC promotes insight of invaluable research and fact based data through presentations of original research and GDP reports.
- The LDC advances the Latino brand through educational outreach and dialogue creation illustrating the importance of the Latino market.

The LDC Austin Reception: An Evening with the Latino Donor Collaborative, welcomed some of our strong business leaders to converse about how the numbers are compelling: proving it is imperative to include Latinos in all levels in order to succeed in any business. This event was hosted by Advisory Network member Bruce Barshop, of Barshop Ventures and Dykema Law Firm.
