I'M DRAWN TO UNEXPECTED
TEXTURES, CONTRASTS AND MIXING TRADITIONAL
MATERIALS
WITH CURRENT TECHNOLOGIES.

I discovered my passion for designing furniture when working on my own home 15 years ago. At the time I had a successful job in advertising and a secure career, however this new and exciting creative avenue was calling me.

I believe that good design should be original, convey a sense of nature, and hold a timeless appeal. Details are so important. Geometry, scale, materials and technology all play an important role in a designer's toolbox.

I have been told my furniture is eclectic and I would be happy to agree. We use a combination of contemporary technology and textures, alongside traditional, and often aged materials. A cabinet might be crafted from crumpled metal and offset against smooth walnut wood. Over time, perhaps the wood might change and then suddenly the piece has another story to tell. The same goes for leather - the more you use it, the more you can see traces of its use. That's what we love in our studio; to observe the natural wear and the ability for our pieces to share their history.

We have a free-spirited approach and take inspiration from both the man-made and natural world. I love to combine traditional materials like wood, bronze and leather with more modern materials, such as polished stainless steel. Construction sites, architectural cladding, rocks and bamboo have all influenced pieces in our collection. In other words, expect the unexpected!

THAT'S WHAT WE

THE ABILITY FOR OUR PIECES TO SHARE THEIR HISTORY.

Neoteric Steel and Stone Dining Table

Taking inspiration from some of the world’s most unexpected places, Suyab Studio finds genius in construction sites. Steel cladding, rocks and bamboo have all inspired the modern and eclectic furniture designer, Zi Zhu who created the Neoteric Steel and Stone Dining Table.

This exquisite architectural dining table combines high shine and textured stainless steel with smooth walnut wood. The natural stone top has been expertly heat-treated for a fully durable scratch, and stain proof finish. It provides a beautiful contrast against the table’s reflective base. More than a mere dining table, it is a sculptural centrepiece for your home – a hearth for where you will gather.

Ming Rattan Chair

The rattan chair is an Asian cultural icon, further popularised when British families overseas returned home from the Far East, including places like Malaysia, Philippines and Singapore — carrying with them bamboo and rattan furnishings, which have remained tokens of style.

Suyab Studios combines two cultural icons of Asia: Ming Dynasty furniture and rattan, to create this tasteful Ming Rattan Chair. Using the silhouette popularised by Chinese royalty and pairing it with the breezy and laid-back nature of rattan, it produces an entirely new minimalist vision steeped in history. Crafted using walnut, rattan and fine grain leather to reach another peak of luxury lounging.

Gradavin Walnut Home Bar

Suyab’s glorious walnut drinks cabinet, lets you enjoy the finer things in the comfort of your own home.

The intricate lattice panelled doors are made from high quality copper-plated steel, and bi-fold open to reveal the cleverly crafted storage space within. From the top, softly illuminated vegan leather panels offer a sustainable back-drop to house glassware, cocktail shakers and bottles, while a heat-treated marble top makes a stain and scratch proof work surface for preparing your favourite tipple.

Two under-counter drawers will hide those all important bar-tending tools, and below, you will find ample storage for your wine collection.

Ebony Abacus Chair

A stunning and distinctive occasion chair, inspired by the tactile beauty of an antique Chinese abacus.

Fine copper wires hold the countless polished ebony beads in place, forming an eye-catching focal point in the design. The geometric base is solid and symmetrical, finished with high-shine copper feet and the seat is finished with an understated full grain leather panel.

A masterful heirloom collectors piece.

No.8 Writing Desk

A graceful desk for the home or office, the No.8 Writing Desk is the work of thoughtful composition. Diagonal beams nod to industrial and architectural design, but in truth are drawn from the Chinese number 8 (八), which gives it its splayed legs. The number 8 is considered lucky, associated with wealth and good fortune in Chinese culture. Its tabletop features a grey-tinted translucent glass, with a small backboard to place items securely. Crafted entirely of black walnut and hints of copper, this desk feels light and simple at first glance. Only after truly taking it in do you realise the spirit of Suyab's craftsmanship.

Depth 463 mm
Height 480 mm

Ming Hallway Table

Taking note from the striking lines and minimal artistry of the Ming Dynasty, this hallway table has an unassuming but regal nature to it. Small flourishes add detail to this side console, like the copper lining on the base of the table or the handles on each edge, preventing items from falling. Both beautiful and practical, its tabletop is crafted from a single piece of solid black walnut wood, creating an enduring platform that will not bend or buckle as time goes on.

Zen Deco Walnut Dressing Table

A beautiful and timeless dressing table, crafted from the finest walnut wood and vegan leather.

The folding curved mirrors have a distinctly art deco feel, while the walnut table design remains true to Suyab’s eastern heritage, with an eye-catching geometric structure.

Two discrete vanity lights are positioned between the mirrors, and ample storage has been built in for hiding away cosmetics and trinkets. One drawer cleverly slides left and right, while the other is accessed via a discrete pull tab

Length 1100 mm
