

Family Fall Bucket List

- Visit a pumpkin patch and create a thankful pumpkin. Once you find your pumpkin, keep it near your dinner table. Each night write something you are thankful for around the pumpkin with a sharpie. On Thanksgiving day read your pumpkin to remember all you have to be thankful for.
- Enjoy a firepit with s'mores and talk about some of the family talk questions on our instagram. We find fires are a great time for real talk, whether that's sharing favorite memories or having heart to heart conversations. We have lots of good family questions on our instagram to try out. Some of our favorites are "how do you like to be comforted during hard times?" and "what moment in the bible do you wish you had been there for?".
- Make a spooky themed food and talk about fear. Some great treat options are monster rice crispy treats, mummy dogs, or jack o'lantern chocolate covered strawberries. While you are making them, talk about the fears you have and how God can help conquer our fears and comfort us.
- Have a family game night. Enjoy a cozy night in playing games with your family. Bonus points if you add great snacks. If you're not sure what to play we recommend Sushi Go, Hedbanz, Uno, Sequence, Telestration, or Monopoly Bid.
- Go for a hike and enjoy God's creation. It's hard to not believe there is something greater when you see the beauty and complexity of nature. Reflect on what it means that God is the creator and why he put so much detail and beauty in his creation.
- Make your own pizza night. Gather ingredients for a make your own pizza night: pepperonis, cheese, onions, peppers, bacon, pineapple if you're into that. Have each family member make their own personal pizza. Afterwards discuss how every part of the pizza is what makes it so delicious. Without the cheese or without the toppings it would not be the same, much like how the church would not be at it's best without all the members of the church. Read 1 Corinthians 12 and enjoy an episode of our new podcast Every Part on sportify.
- Read some of the prophecies in Isaiah about Jesus and prepare for the coming of Christ during the holiday season. As we prepare for the Christmas season, read about how God's people were waiting for Christ and then during the Christmas season read the beginning of Matthew to see how Jesus fulfilled those prophecies.
