"Introducing Our Nation's Rural-Serving Postsecondary Institutions"

Rural-Serving Institutions Data Dictionary

Alliance for Research on Regional Colleges

January 2022

OVERVIEW

The RSI dataset was created by the Alliance for Research on Regional College, as part of the project, Introducing Our Nation's Rural-Serving Postsecondary Institutions, a year-long initiative funded by the Ascendium Education Group. These data are compiled from multiple sources and include variables pulled directly from the other sources as well as new measures created for the purpose of this project.

These data are made publicly accessible in hopes of supporting practitioners and researchers in their efforts to understand and elevate rural-serving institutions. Associated materials, including the report, the interactive data map tool, and a host of other presentations and materials are available on the ARRC website (regionalcolleges.org). If you have trouble accessing the data or have concerns about the content, please contact us at info@regionalcolleges.org.

This documentation guide is based on our full dataset which includes two-year and four-year, public and private not-for-profit, associates- and bachelors-degree granting institutions, except for special focus institutions and colleges where the entire student body is enrolled exclusively online. Please note that the dataset can be downloaded in full on our project website or through a custom query from the map tool. If you are using a dataset generated through a custom query in the online map tool, some of the information included here may be missing. This document details data sources, specific variables, and manual data fixes that were part of this project.

DATA SOURCES

Most of the institutional data is drawn from the U.S. Department of Education's Integrated Postsecondary Education Data Set (IPEDS), housed within the National Center for Education Statistics (https://nces.ed.gov/ipeds/). These institutional-level data are combined with county-level data from the Census Bureau and from the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Economic Research Service (USDA-ERS). Links to the websites with the specific datasets can be found at the end of the document.

STRUCTURE

In the following pages, we list and describe the individual variables. For each variable, the following information with be included:

1. Short Name
2. Long Name
3. Source
4. Description

Please note that the Short Names listed below include a prefix (e.g., "meta__," "overview__," "student_body__," "rsi__," and "financial__") that is present when data files are downloaded using our online map tool. When accessing the data file directly from the project website, these prefixes will not be present and just the variable's Short Name will be listed.

This measure removes the information in the original RUCC scores regarding county size and collapses into two groups. A "1" represents the counties that are not in metro areas and are not adjacent to a metro area. A "0" represents the counties that are either metropolitan counties or adjacent to metropolitan counties.

MANUAL DATA FIXES

Through the course of this project, there were a number of manual data fixes that had to be made to the data set to ensure accuracy of our analysis and to present accurate information on the map tool. This section details the manual data fixes made by the team to build the final data set.

1. Removal of all records for institutions that enroll only graduate students, are a subordinate unit of another institution, or have closed since their last report to IPEDS.

2. Pennsylvania State University (Penn State) is organized as one university, despite having numerous campuses. Despite each campus having a unique identifier in IPEDS, Penn State has begun reporting a number of statistics (e.g., enrollments, student demographics, endowment assets, etc.) at the overall institution level and assigning these values to the main campus. As a result, data elements pulled from IPEDS are either missing for branch campuses or the overall, disaggregated figures for the entire institution are the figures displayed for each branch campus. The research team manually disaggregated total enrollments to each campus, but for other statistics, the research team simply coded the values as missing because re-aggregating is either not possible using publicly available data or would be an unreasonably labor-intensive process. Therefore, the following data for Penn State campuses were coded as missing (-1) in our data set:

    a. Racial composition of the student body

    b. Percentage of students receiving Pell Grants

    c. Percentage of students who are adult students

    d. Full-time equivalent staff

    e. Percentage of revenue from state appropriations

3. For our map tool, we chose to include designations for institutions that Tribal Colleges and Universities (TCUs), Historically Black Colleges and Universities (HBCUs), High Native-enrolling, High Black-enrolling, High Hispanic-enrolling, and High Asian/Pacific Islander-enrolling. The latter four categories utilized the undergraduate enrollment percentage thresholds for Minority-Serving Institution grant programs from the U.S. Department of Education. In the case of High Native-enrolling institutions, this threshold is 10% or more of undergraduate students identifying as being of Native descent, and 40% or more identifying as Black for High Black-enrolling institutions. Because TCUs and HBCUs are special federal designations who enroll large percentages of students from these backgrounds, these institutions were also being flagged as High Native-enrolling and High Black-enrolling, respectively. These designations are mutually exclusive, so for all TCUs, the High Native-enrolling (non-TCU) flag was recoded to "0," and for all HBCUs, the High Black-enrolling (non-HBCU) flag was also recoded to "0."

4. The county information associated with Oglala Lakota College had to be manually recoded due to a change in the county name and federal county code for the political subdivision in which the college is located. The county code was changed to 46113 and the name changed to Shannon County, South Dakota. As a result of this change, the county traits associated with Oglala Lakota College had to be manually recoded because the old political subdivision was not classified for these traits, but the new county is. The flags for Low Employment, Persistent Poverty, and Persistent Child Poverty were all recoded to "1."

5. For a number of institutions, data were missing for the endowment assets per full-time equivalent student, and this appears to be due to missing data for overall endowment assets. It is unclear the degree to which these missing data indicated the lack of any endowment assets, as some institutions in this situation had endowments of value (as confirmed by data sources outside of IPEDS), while, for others, no endowment value could be determined. It should be noted that the inability to determine the existence of an endowment does not necessarily mean there is no endowment, as some institutions reported $0 to IPEDS as the value of their endowment assets. Therefore, the research team decided to report missing data from IPEDS as missing in our data set and map tool, so this data element was recoded as missing (-1) for the following institutions:
