INTERCEPTIONS

He is a player with a great ability to intercept passes. He comfortably positions himself to get to the ball before his rival makes it. It allows his team to transition quickly into attack or just simply recover the ball. He understands how to pass to avoid any pressure on him.

DISTRIBUTION

He is a footballer who frequently participates in the play. He shows up in different heights and lanes in order to create play. He generates so much in attack since he can be that player who builds-up in between the centre-backs, always looking for playing wide.

OFFENSIVE PHASE

He is able to play as a box to box due to his offensive skills. He can be part of the attack by making diagonal runs in behind the defenders. In addition, he understands how to become an option to receive off the mark in front of the goalkeeper.

TACTICAL ANALYSIS

SECOND BALLS

He is smart to win second balls. This probably one of his main skills. Nowadays, being a player with that ability is very important. Defensively, he wins the ball back and immediately tries to build-up. In the offensive phase, he always tries to reactivate the attack near the rival's box.

ORIENTED CONTROL

This movement is easy for him since When receiving, he positions his body and his foot to make just a few touches and get himself in front of the goal. Also, his technical gestures help him turn around. This is fundamental for a player who plays his position.

BIOTYPE

Defensively, he has many tools. He stands out at defensive 1v1 duels. Regardless of his capacity of anticipation, he is strong for ground challenges. He uses his biotype to win, something really valuable for a young player. He can also develop his body more.
