At Lighthouse, we believe that no single platform is the best at addressing every stage of ediscovery. For that reason, we have built our business around industry–leading technologies that excel at each specific function. Then, we develop proprietary features, applications, and custom solutions to improve the efficiency of review and reduce overall spend. These innovations improve the speed and quality of processing and production operations, minimize data needing to be reviewed, make reviewers more efficient, and provide better analytics and reporting for our clients. In the case of review, we have chosen to build our enhancements and expertise around kCura's Relativity.

Challenges We Address

Relativity is a robust, feature-rich, web-based review tool that enables case teams to handle complex review projects and tailor their approach to each case. While Relativity is tremendously customizable and scalable, it requires extensive experience to leverage all of its capabilities. Some of Relativity's standard functionality can also be streamlined or improved upon for greater efficiency, such as reporting, QC sampling, and in-case management of documentation and communication between teams. Given that review is the most costly part of the ediscovery process, any efficiencies gained in these areas translate into real savings for clients.

Benefits We Provide

Lighthouse has solved these challenges with Relativity Powered by Lighthouse, a comprehensive solution that leverages the best of Lighthouse's custom developed database enhancements, applications, and workflows as well as the deep review and technical expertise of Lighthouse's Hosted Solutions team to provide clients with the most advanced and efficient Relativity experience on the market.

FEATURES:

- Custom Features — Lighthouse deploys a proprietary database template with custom features not present in out-of-the-box Relativity for use across all of our clients' matters. Features include our Communication Portal, with a message board and documentation repository to allow for real-time communication and a centralized hub for case information directly within the review tool, improving efficiency, consistency, and access to case knowledge; Event Handlers, which enforce coding logic and rules across an entire review and improve efficiency and consistency of review; a QC Sampling module, which works in tandem with Relativity auto-batching to reduce manual work in QC review and ensure a clean, efficient QC workflow; and enhanced reporting to provide deeper insight into review metrics and user activity, for savings on time and review spend.

The SmartSeries includes our ReviewSmart™, technology assisted review offering; PrivSmart™, a proprietary process that reduces document volume specifically for privilege review by helping you categorize documents according to the likelihood they actually contain privileged content and automatically generating a privilege log; EmailSmart™/DupSmart™, our email threading and near-duplicate identification and suppression tools; and RedactSmart™, our proprietary automated redaction solution which increases the speed and efficiency with which redactions are applied across a matter. The SmartSeries collectively saves clients as much as 60% on their overall review spend.

- Expert Guidance — Our experienced Hosted Solutions team is dedicated to assisting clients reviewing data in Relativity. The team is comprised of former review attorneys, project managers, and database administrators with deep review design experience from both user and implementation perspectives.
