

Macartney Reinhardt

Nashville country recording artist Macartney Reinhardt is quickly catching the eye of industry executives and music lovers with her powerhouse vocals, her soulful, bluesy twang, and lyrics that come straight from the heart.

Hailing from music royalty, as a relative of the legendary jazz guitarist Django Reinhardt, Macartney was exposed to a variety of styles and genres from an early age. The Atlanta, GA. native was captivated watching her dad perform when she was a toddler, and started singing along while he played guitar. At just 5 years old she knew she always wanted music at the center of her life.

This rising recording artist has performed all over the Southeast in venues both small and large, from clubs to large outdoor events and music competitions. Macartney was one of just five musicians nominated for Teen Artist of the Year at the 2020 Georgia Country Awards, which honors the very best country musicians in the state. She performed in front of industry professionals and peers at the event, known as the "CMAs" of Georgia. Macartney has more new music on the horizon later this year.
