BEGINNINGS

OUR GOAL

To improve outcomes of Aboriginal Children (0-5) in Kalgoorlie - Boulder

HOW WE WORK

- We take a holistic approach that includes health, well-being, family needs, culture, language, history, family support and early intervention.
- We contribute to a safe and connected community by supporting well-being, family voice, access to services, children's voice, equity and inclusion, consulting and involving families and social justice.
- We build the capacity of families by building parent capacity, engaging families in the process and empowering families.
- We seek to improve services so that they are integrated, child and family centred, have strong collaboration and cross sector communication, share information, greater professional skills, and strong cultural governance.

STEPPING STONES OF OUR WORK TOGETHER

- Inclusive and culturally specific community engagement
- Effective and transparent governance (including community) around a clear purpose.
- Multi-sector collaboration around a shared purpose and goal with aligned action.
- Capacity development for services to work together, in a more integrated, holistic and culturally specific way.
- Data and evidence-based decision making, practice and a culture where strategic learning drives the process.
