Information we may collect – including in connection to the provision of credit

We will only collect and hold personal information for the purpose of providing products and services to you, managing our business and as required by law.

The following are examples of the types of information we may collect and hold:

- contact details including your name, postal or residential address, email, telephone numbers including mobile numbers;
- information and documents to verify your identity including date of birth, tax file number; previous 2 addresses, your current and last known employer, a copy of your driver's licence or passport;
- passwords, passcodes and knowledge-based questions used for your account security
- voice verification using your voice print on calls for your account security;
- information about your financial position;
- job applications and related information - if you apply for a job with us, please see our Privacy Notification for Job Applicants; and
- information relating to your use of the Bank Australia website, internet banking and/or application ("App").

In connection to the provision of credit, information we may collect includes:

- your credit file, your credit history, and applications for credit
- your repayment history;
- information about your current or terminated consumer credit accounts
- information about your payments overdue for at least 60 days and for which collection action has commenced;
- whether you are a guarantor; and
- other information about credit standing, worthiness, history or capacity that credit providers can disclose under the Privacy Act, including a credit report.

Reasons we collect and hold information

We may collect, hold, use and disclose your personal information for the purposes of:

- assessing and processing your application to acquire, administer or discontinue any financial or banking products and services that we provide;
- when providing credit to you, this may include assessing your application for consumer or commercial credit or to be a guarantor, assessing your credit worthiness, managing your loan or the arrangements under which your loan is funded or in the collection of overdue payments including notifications via SMS;
- identity verification and customer due diligence to meet our obligations under anti money laundering and counter-terrorism financing laws, and to protect your account from unauthorised access;
- complying with legislative and regulatory obligations, for example we are legally obliged to collect and hold personal information about you to assess your capacity to repay a loan;
- providing information to joint account holders;
- confirming security information, including notifications via SMS;
- providing you with information about your payment transfers and any details regarding overdrawn accounts or accounts in arrears, or when we combine or set off your accounts, including notifications via SMS;
- providing you with information about financial services and products from third parties we have arrangements with;
- obtaining further information about you from credit reporting agencies and other third parties to assess your application;
- conducting research, including customer satisfaction research and market or demographic research in relation to the products and services you and other members may acquire from us, planning, product development or risk assessment;
- sending you marketing material, promotional messages and other information that may be of interest to you (see "Marketing preferences, data security and online privacy section") including membership benefits; and
- investigating disputes, complaints or mistaken payments.

Wherever possible we will collect personal information directly from you. However when you apply for credit or apply to be a guarantor, we will collect information about your credit history from a credit reporting body and other lenders. From time to time we may ask you to confirm your contact information.

If you do not provide us with the personal information we request, we may not be able to consider your application for credit or provide other products or services.

Disclosure of information – including your credit-related information

We may disclose your personal information (including credit-related information) to other organisations that provide services that assist us in supplying or administering the products and services that we offer. We also disclose your personal information as required by law. We only disclose your personal information to the extent necessary and as required by law.

We do not generally disclose your information to overseas recipients.

The types of organisations that we may provide your personal information to are:

- organisations that provide information to verify your identity (this includes electronic verification);
- our professional advisers such as lawyers, accountants or auditors;
- providers of payment and card services when you make a transaction using a payment service or a card;

Online privacy

Cookies

"Cookies" give users of our web server or application a unique, random identification by storing small text files onto your computer's hard drive with your internet browser.

How we use cookies:

1. Unique identifiers (such as login name and password) are collected from web site visitors to verify a user's identity and for use as account numbers in our record system.
2. Unique identifiers are also used to access stored information about a visitor's preferences to enable the dynamic display of the site according to your preferences when you return.
3. Targeting or advertising – these cookies are used to deliver marketing and advertising material that are relevant to you. They also limit the number of times that you see an advertisement and help Bank Australia ensure the effectiveness of our marketing campaigns

Disabling Cookies:

It is possible to disable the acceptance of cookies by your web browser. However, doing so may restrict your ability to access some web pages.

If you prevent the use of cookies, the information mentioned above will no longer be stored by your browser and with every visit your information will be required and have to be completed again. You should also note that the use of Digital Banking is not possible without the use of cookies. Specific settings regarding cookies depend on the type of browser.

For more detailed information, please refer to our Website Security & Privacy Statement
