Sola by Justus Kolberg

Sola has long been known for exemplifying a truly classic, minimalistic style, enhancing conference spaces and executive offices alike. As a result of technological and manufacturing advancements, this designer favorite has been re-engineered with more comfort in mind, enhancing the seating experience of the Sola Chair through evolved features.

Like its predecessor, this new design possesses a distinctive, sculptural form marked by dramatic angles and uninterrupted lines that will continue to elevate office spaces, conference rooms and executive offices. However, this updated design's simple elegance, poise and grace will now include an increased focus on all-day comfort and support. Sola's designer, Justus Kolberg, and the Davis Furniture team reworked the design to create a conference chair that prioritized comfort in a way like never before while also maintaining the impressive and unparalleled aesthetic of the iconic Sola silhouette.

The new Sola chair features an updated version of the original seating mechanism. A new aluminum seat pan underscores the upholstered seat and adds a sleek detail and enhanced visual interest to the underside of the chair. Further improving the response to the user's comfort, the rigid plywood shell has now been replaced with a semi-flexible plastic back that is covered in molded foam, creating the perfect lumbar support and durable comfort that will last throughout the workday. The aluminum five-star caster base, chair arms and underside of the upholstered seat are now available in polished aluminum as well as in 32 standard powder coat colors. Staying true to its legacy, the new Sola chair preserves the sleek aesthetic of the original design while providing elevated comfort for the most prestigious office spaces.
