Material Changes

Material Changes since the Last Annual Update

This section of Wilshire’s brochure provides investors with a summary of material changes to Wilshire’s business since our last annual update on March 31, 2021.

On January 8, 2021, Wilshire was purchased (the “Transaction”) by Monica Holdco (US) Inc. (“Buyer”). The Buyer is indirectly controlled by CC Monica Holdings, LLC and Motive Monica LLC. As part of the Transaction, Ares Management Corporation became a lender to the Buyer.

Following are the members of Wilshire’s Executive Committee, which has primary responsibility for the management of Wilshire:

- Mark Makepeace: Chief Executive Officer & Chairman
- Jason Schwarz: President & Chief Operating Officer
- Andy Stewart: Chief Innovations Officer
- Nick Teunon: Chief Financial Officer
- Reza Ghassemieh: Chief Benchmark Officer
- Jody Kochansky: Chief Technology Officer
- Leah Emkin: Head of Client Solutions (as of 4/22/21)
- Tina Takeuchi: Senior Vice President, Human Resources (as of 4/22/21)

The structure creates the potential for conflicts of interest. For example, the Buyer could benefit from Wilshire’s access to pools of capital, relations with large institutional investors and market influence. In addition, the Buyer could seek to influence Wilshire’s advice to its clients. To mitigate the potential for conflict, Wilshire will maintain an organizational structure and conflicts management process that will ensure independence of its investment processes and that Wilshire’s fiduciary obligations are administered independently.

Wilshire Advisors LLC

Firm Description

Wilshire Advisors LLC (“Wilshire”) is a privately held investment technology and advisory firm founded in 1972. The founders’ mission was to combine actuarial science with investment principles and apply scientific methods to help institutional investors manage assets and liabilities simultaneously. In its early years, Wilshire introduced the industry to its integrated asset/liability modeling and risk management and portfolio optimization models, to help plan sponsors and institutional investors arrive at optimal portfolios based on their specific needs. Throughout its history, Wilshire has been deemed a leader in the investment community by consistently delivering innovative investment research, products and services that transform complex theory into practical applications.

Wilshire is headquartered in Santa Monica, California with approximately 263 employees in 10 offices serving more than 500 clients worldwide through four primary service offerings.

Principal Owners

Wilshire Advisors LLC is controlled by Monica Holdco (US) Inc. Monica Holdco (US) Inc. is in turn indirectly controlled by CC Monica Holdings, LLC and Motive Monica LLC.

CC Monica Holdings, LLC is advised by CC Capital, a private investment firm based in New York City founded in 2015 with a focus on investing in and operating high-quality businesses for the long term, with targeted holding periods for their investments beyond what is typically found in the industry. CC Capital funds its investments through a variety of capital sources and frequently partners with executives, managers, and enterprise owners to leverage their knowledge and expertise in adding value to their portfolio companies.

Motive Monica LLC is advised by Motive Partners, a specialist private equity firm with offices in New York City and London. Motive Partners provides growth equity and makes buyout investments in software and information service companies in North America and Europe, primarily in five sectors: Banking & Payments, Capital Markets, Data & Analytics, Investment Advice & Management, and Insurance. Motive brings differentiated expertise, connectivity, and capabilities to create long-term value in financial technology companies.

Advisory Business

Types of Advisory Services

Wilshire is a global financial services firm providing diverse discretionary and non-discretionary investment advisory services and products to investors and intermediaries. Wilshire has assets under advisement of approximately $1.29 trillion as of December 31, 2020. Wilshire has approximately $82 billion in assets under management, providing discretionary investment services with respect to funds or accounts as follows:

- Wilshire sponsored funds including Wilshire Private Market Funds, the Wilshire Mutual Funds and VITs, the Wilshire Solutions Funds Trust and the Wilshire Institutional Master funds;
- Funds sponsored by third parties for which Wilshire serves as sub-adviser with discretion over security selection, asset allocation and/or manager selection;
- OCIO services where Wilshire has the discretion to hire and terminate investment managers and rebalance portfolio assets;
- Model portfolios where Wilshire has discretion over the model;
- Delegated consulting where Wilshire has the discretion to adjust the asset allocation of a portfolio to meet the ranges dictated by the chosen glide path; and
- Defined contribution plans where Wilshire has the discretion over the fund line-up offered to plan participants.

Wilshire's products, services, investment approach and advice may differ between clients (including discretionary accounts and even where similarly situated) and all of Wilshire's products and services may not be available to all clients. Clients may utilize different classes of the same issuer that have different rights, including, without limitation, with respect to liquidity and fees. The exercise of differentiated rights on behalf of one client may impact results and/or the ability of another client to engage in a transaction, investment or activity. Non-discretionary clients may have different rights in the same investment. For example, a private investment (or possibly redemption) on behalf of a discretionary client may prevent the investment into a fund (or redemption out of a fund) of a non-discretionary client. Wilshire may also offer products and services that compete in the market with products and services of clients relying on Wilshire for advice, or even such products or services. For example, Wilshire may build products from indexes that compete with other users of our index. Wilshire may advise clients about investment funds that compete with funds managed by Wilshire.

Different services within Wilshire may have different approaches to managers, portfolios, funds or investment products. Some service provisions may favor, and some client portfolios may be better suited for, more active management based on investment ideas derived from short-term market views ("dynamic tilts"). The use of dynamic tilts may affect (positively or negatively) the volatility and expenses of implementing an investment strategy or portfolio and further cause differences between clients.

Greater detail regarding the advisory services provided by Wilshire are as follows:

Fee Billing

Fees are generally billed monthly or quarterly. Payment in full is expected upon receipt of the invoice.

For advisory clients, fees may be paid out of the client's investment account by the client's custodian. A client must consent in advance to direct debiting of its investment account. When we collect fees in this manner, at the same time we bill the custodian, we will send the client an invoice showing the amount of the fees, the value of the assets on which they are based, and the fee computation. Upon termination, fees will be billed or refunded, as appropriate, on a pro rata basis for the portion of the quarter completed. The portfolio value at the beginning of the period is used as the basis for the fee computation, adjusted for the number of days during the billing quarter prior to termination.

Other Fees

Client accounts may incur other fees not associated with Wilshire (e.g., administrative, custodian and/or transaction fees). Client accounts also incur brokerage commissions, which are discussed in the "Brokerage Practices" section of this brochure. Expenses other than advisory and performance fees and brokerage commissions, such as custody fees, are generally paid directly by a client to the service provider.

Funds are generally subject to operating expenses, including advisory fees paid to the investment managers and sub-advisors of the funds. If Wilshire invests a client's assets in a fund (proprietary or nonproprietary), the client will bear a proportionate share of the operating expenses of the fund; in addition to the fees it pays Wilshire. If Wilshire invests a discretionary client's assets in a fund managed by Wilshire, Wilshire may waive its advisory fee with respect to those assets; however in such instances, Wilshire, as the investment adviser to the fund, will receive a management fee directly from the fund.

Where an advisor engages Wilshire to provide index calculation services with respect to an index that the fund tracks or uses as a benchmark, Wilshire's fees for its index services are paid out of the assets of the fund as a fund expense.

Performance Based Fees

Wilshire may charge a performance fee for certain services to its clients qualified to participate in performance fee arrangements under the Investment Advisers Act. These fees are generally charged on a percentage of the profits earned from investments, at times only after a minimum return has been achieved. The pertinent fee agreement provides details about how these fees are charged.

The use of performance-based fees may result in conflicts of interest. Advisors may devote more time to developing and analyzing investment strategies or allocate opportunities preferentially to accounts for which it could share in investment gains. Wilshire professionals allocate client assets according to our policies. Therefore, accounts with performance-based fees are not granted preferential allocations and no client, regardless of fee model, is favored over another.

Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss

Methods of Analysis

Since 1972, Wilshire has pioneered analytical-driven investment consulting and asset management solutions to manage risk. Wilshire was an early innovator of integrated asset/liability modeling, as well as risk management and portfolio optimization models to help plan sponsors and institutional investors arrive at optimal portfolios based on their specific needs. Industry research and our experience lead us to believe that the asset allocation decision has the greatest impact on a portfolio's long-term return and risk profile. Wilshire embraced this important concept over 40 years ago when the firm introduced its integrated asset/liability modeling technique to the industry.

The investment strategy for a specific client is based upon the objectives stated by the client during consultations and as mutually agreed through an investment policy statement. Wilshire has 40 years of experience in assisting clients to develop investment policies, procedures and guidelines. Investment policy and guidelines are integral to all aspects of Wilshire's investment advisory services.

For those clients for which Wilshire has investment discretion, Wilshire primarily selects asset managers as sub-advisors to whom Wilshire delegates day-to-day portfolio management, invests in other investment funds, which it monitors and oversees and invests directly in securities or derivatives. These investment managers or funds execute various types of investment strategies. Wilshire's selection and monitoring of investment managers is based on various criteria, including, without limitation, investment performance, risk management, investment philosophy, organizational structure, experience and commitment.

Wilshire also engages in quantitative, rules-based investment analytics, which are used in a variety of applications including monitoring broker-dealers' investment platforms and selecting securities for investment portfolios.

Risk of Loss

All investment programs have certain risks that are borne by the investor. Wilshire's investment approach seeks to mitigate risk and ensure clients are compensated for the risk they take. The risk for each client varies in accordance with their policies, procedures, goals, guidelines and stated risk tolerance. In addition, all of Wilshire's clients will encounter risks, including, but not limited to:

Market Risk: The price of a security, bond, or mutual fund may drop in reaction to tangible and intangible events and conditions. This type of risk is caused by external factors independent of a security's particular underlying value or the company's circumstances. For example, political, economic and social conditions may trigger market events.

Interest-rate Risk: Fluctuations in interest rates may cause investment prices to fluctuate. For example, when interest rates rise, yields on existing bonds become less attractive, causing their market values to decline.

Inflation Risk: When any type of inflation is present, a dollar today will not buy as much as a dollar next year, because purchasing power is eroding at the rate of inflation.

Currency Risk: Foreign investments are subject to fluctuations in the value of the dollar against the currency of the investment's originating country. This is also referred to as exchange rate risk.

Reinvestment Risk: Future proceeds from investments may have to be reinvested at a potentially lower rate of return (i.e., interest rate). This risk primarily relates to fixed income securities.

Business Risk: These risks are associated with a particular industry or a particular company within an industry. For example, oil companies are subject to the vagaries of both broadly fluctuating demand, and accordingly, prices for their product. They carry a higher degree of risk of loss in comparison to an electric company, which has a more predictable demand for its product at a regulated price.

Liquidity Risk: Liquidity is the ability to readily convert an investment into cash. Generally, assets are more liquid if many traders are interested in a standardized product. For example, Treasury Bills are highly liquid, while real estate properties are not, given the lengthy process to sell real estate.

Financial Risk: Financial risk represents a broad spectrum of risk associated with a company's financings, including loans and the risk of default.

Disciplinary Information

Legal and Disciplinary

Registered investment advisers are required to disclose all material facts regarding any legal or disciplinary events that would be material to a client's evaluation of the adviser or the integrity of the adviser's management. While Wilshire may be engaged in various civil litigation matters from time to time, to the best of Wilshire's knowledge there is no current or pending litigation against Wilshire that would affect its ability to fulfill contractual commitments. Wilshire has no reportable legal or disciplinary events.

Conflicts of Interest

Conflicts of Interest

A conflict of interest exists when circumstances create a risk that Wilshire or its personnel's professional judgment, recommendations or actions on behalf of a client might be unduly influenced by a secondary interest relating to Wilshire itself, its personnel, a related party or another client. A conflict of interest may exist regardless of intent; nonetheless, it is Wilshire's policy to make recommendations and decisions based solely upon the best interests of the client and without regard to any benefit (economic or otherwise) that Wilshire receives or might receive. The existence of a conflict of interest does not necessarily mean that anyone has acted inappropriately. Conflicts may arise from activities necessary for the provision of Wilshire's services and even beneficial to Wilshire's clients, such as Wilshire gaining new expertise or tools that allow it provide new or enhanced products and services to clients. However, conflicts of interest do represent risks which need to be managed.

Without limitation, conflicts of interest arise when Wilshire

- i. develops and markets products or services using its own underlying tools and products (e.g. a fund or ETF developed from one of Wilshire's indexes);
- ii. provides advice or a recommendation to a client with regards to Wilshire's own products or services;
- iii. provides advice or a recommendation with regards to a product or service with which Wilshire competes;
- iv. evaluates, reviews or recommends an investment manager or other financial services provider with which Wilshire has a business relationship or to which it provides services;
- v. makes a decision that impacts clients differently; or
- vi. recommends the services of a third party from which Wilshire obtains a benefit (economic or otherwise).

Wilshire recognizes that the Transaction and new ownership creates the potential for conflicts of interest. For example, the Buyer could benefit from Wilshire's access to pools of capital, relations with large institutional investors and market influence. In addition, the Investor Group could seek to influence Wilshire's advice to its clients. Further, the Buyer may purchase other businesses which may compete with or be complimentary to Wilshire and which could benefit from Wilshire's position in the financial services industry. To mitigate the potential for conflict, Wilshire will maintain an organizational structure and conflicts management process that will ensure independence of its investment processes. While the parent of the Buyer, which is controlled by Motive Partners and CC Capital, will be responsible for the strategic direction of Wilshire, Wilshire will continue to function as an independent fiduciary.

Other conflicts of interest arise because Wilshire has extensive business relationships with, and may provide services to, investment managers and other financial services providers that may be evaluated or recommended by us. Wilshire, for example, engages sub-advisors to manage portions of its discretionary funds. It may also be engaged as a sub-advisor by third-party funds. As well, Wilshire's manager research team, which produces manager evaluations may participate in providing certain services to financial services providers, including investment managers and financial services providers that Wilshire may recommend to advisory clients. Wilshire may also offer products and services that compete in the market with products and services of clients relying on Wilshire for such products or services. For example, Wilshire may build products from indexes that compete with other users of our index.

Wilshire also receives differentiated fees or other compensation (including performance-based fees) from clients and may have incentives to favor some clients or accounts over others. For example, certain investors that are invested in pooled investment vehicles may pay higher or lower fees and expenses or may be subject to higher or lower incentive allocations than similarly situated investors that are invested in the same pooled investment vehicle. Amounts may vary as a result of differentiated factors that may include the particular circumstances of the investor or the size and scope of the overall relationship. Fee and expense allocations to investors may differ depending on the class of shares. In addition, Wilshire provides products and services that compete with those that we evaluate or recommend.

Wilshire recognizes that there are potential conflicts of interest between Wilshire's obligation to provide objective advice to clients and our relationships with the investment managers and financial services providers we recommend to those clients.

It is Wilshire’s policy to make evaluations, recommendations and decisions based solely upon the best interests of the client and without regard to any benefit (economic or otherwise) that Wilshire or its affiliates receive or might receive. Wilshire is committed to ensuring that it appropriately manages conflicts of interests in providing its products and services and that it does not consider an investment manager’s or financial service provider’s business relationship with Wilshire, its affiliates, or lack thereof, in performing evaluations for or making recommendations to its advisory clients. Wilshire has implemented policies and procedures that seek to mitigate conflicts of interest through appropriate oversight, transparency and controls.

Oversight

The Wilshire Conflicts Management Committee (“CMC”), which includes the President and Chief Operating Officer, Chief Financial Officer, General Counsel, Chief Compliance Officer and other members of management, is responsible for overseeing the management of activities and situations involving potential conflicts of interest. Members of the CMC associated with the Buyer may not participate in decisions which have a conflict of interest related to such members. When determined appropriate by the CMC, it may delegate issues to other Wilshire committees, such as the Wilshire Investment Oversight Committee, to provide oversight or an independent assessment of issues where a conflict of interest is present. Conflicts of interests that have been identified by the CMC, without limitation, include:

- Conflicts arising between Wilshire and the Buyer or their affiliates.
- Wilshire providing advice or information to a current advisory client about a fund or other investment vehicle for which Wilshire or one of its affiliates is the investment manager.
- Wilshire provides advice or information to a current advisory client about additional services.
- Wilshire provides advice or information to a new client about its ability to provide both investment advisory and discretionary investment services (through either a separate account or a Wilshire vehicle).
- Wilshire is contemplating a product or service that may compete with a product or service of a client.

Transparency

Wilshire has an obligation to make full and fair disclosure of material facts to its clients. A fact is considered material when there is a substantial likelihood that a reasonable individual would consider it important or where knowledge of the information would be necessary for the client to make an informed decision.

Wilshire’s policy is to disclose material conflicts of interest to its clients and prospective clients. Wilshire will provide existing and prospective investment advisory clients with a Conflicts Disclosure Report (“Disclosure Report”), providing a summary of relevant conflicts identified by Wilshire and listing all relationships that Wilshire has with investment managers and other relevant financial services providers along with a summary of the types of services that Wilshire may provide to those entities. Wilshire also provides certain advisory clients with a Disclosure Report when making a manager recommendation or when otherwise deemed appropriate. Clients receiving a Disclosure Report may request more detailed information about managers or service providers with which the client has or is considering a relationship by contacting Compliance or their client service representative. For each manager or financial services provider for which a client has requested additional information, Wilshire will, where appropriate, provide a more detailed report.

When Wilshire recommends a Wilshire fund or other product or service to a client, Wilshire will provide the client with relevant disclosures including identification of the potential conflict of interest and the benefits (economic and otherwise) that Wilshire may obtain from a client’s investment; and, when deemed necessary, the client will be required to acknowledge and accept such conflict.

Controls

Wilshire will seek to implement appropriate controls to mitigate conflicts. Controls include well defined investment procedures and appropriate oversight in the execution of investment and operations functions. Wilshire may also seek to manage the flow of information or limit certain activities. Wilshire generally does not use ethical walls to limit the sharing of information within its advisory business. Investment advisory personnel have multiple roles and often the personnel necessary for an assignment cannot be divided into different groups around which to erect ethical walls. In these instances, Wilshire will seek other means to mitigate any actual or potential conflict that may arise, including disclosure or greater supervisory oversight.

The following, without limitation, reflects Wilshire's material controls:

- Wilshire will not evaluate, recommend or invest in any of the Buyer's funds or investment opportunities;
- Ethical walls have been established between Wilshire and the Buyer (and their affiliates) to prevent the flow of information regarding specific investments, recommendations and client portfolio holdings and activities; for greater certainty, no Wilshire employee that is also affiliated with the Buyer (or their affiliates) will participate in Wilshire's investment processes;
- ERISA clients to whom Wilshire provides advisory services (other than investors in a Wilshire fund) may not be marketed additional Wilshire products and services; and
- Non-ERISA, advisory clients to whom Wilshire provides advisory services (other than investors in a Wilshire fund) may be introduced to other Wilshire services and products or advised as to the suitability of such an investment by its Wilshire adviser in accordance with Wilshire's other policies and procedures or in accordance with any restrictions imposed by the CMC.

Code of Ethics, Participation or Interest in Client Transactions and Personal Trading

Code of Ethics

Wilshire's Code of Ethics ("Code") was adopted in compliance with the requirements of the Investment Advisers Act and the Investment Company Act of 1940. The Code emphasizes Wilshire's fiduciary duty to its advisory clients and the obligation of the firm's personnel to uphold that fundamental duty. The Code addresses securities-related conduct and focuses principally on personal securities transactions, conflicts of interest, political contributions and employee reporting requirements.

Wilshire has implemented Schwab Compliance Technologies to assist in the management, monitoring and reviewing of employee personal securities accounts and transactions. Employees, with limited exceptions, are required to maintain accounts at approved broker-dealers and are required to obtain pre-approval prior to trading securities listed on the firm's Restricted Companies List ("RCL"). The RCL includes publicly traded companies that are clients of Wilshire's advisory business units (excluding Wilshire Compass clients), individual securities being actively held or traded by a portfolio over which Wilshire has discretionary control, or if Wilshire believes it could be in possession of material nonpublic information about such companies. As detailed above CC Capital and Motive Partners as well as all publicly traded entities controlled by them will be added to the RCL. Business unit managers, in consultation with Wilshire's Compliance Department, otherwise determine whether or not to include companies on the RCL.

On an annual basis Wilshire requires employees to certify that they are in compliance with the Code. Wilshire will provide clients and prospective clients with a copy of the Code upon request.

Brokerage Practices

Selecting Brokerage Firms

Wilshire does not have any affiliation with firms that sell products (i.e., broker-dealers). Select employees of Wilshire who engage in activity that may require their registration as a licensed agent of a broker-dealer are registered with a brokerage firm, through which Wilshire distributes investment products. Wilshire does not otherwise regularly execute or direct trading on individual securities and Wilshire does not generally make recommendations to clients regarding brokerage services.

Best Execution

On occasion, Wilshire may execute transactions through a broker-dealer on behalf of Wilshire managed funds or empower an agent to trade on behalf of Wilshire managed funds. When directly selecting a broker-dealer Wilshire will seek to have orders executed at prices that are as favorable as possible under prevailing market conditions. Wilshire will seek broker-dealers that can provide the best qualitative execution, taking into consideration various factors, including, but not limited to the asset being traded, the capability of the firm to execute trades efficiently, quality of price execution, the competitiveness of commission rates and transaction fees, Wilshire's limited trading activity, and the overall level of customer service. Thus, while Wilshire will give significant weight to the competitiveness of the available commission and transaction rates, it may not necessarily select the broker-dealer that offers the lowest possible rates. Additionally, even where Wilshire uses its best efforts to seek the lowest possible commission rate, it may not obtain the lowest rate for any particular transaction.

If a client directs Wilshire to effect transactions through a particular broker-dealer, Wilshire may not be able to seek best execution services or prices from such directed broker-dealers nor may it be able to "bunch" the client's transactions with orders for other accounts. As such, the client may incur higher commissions or other transaction costs than would otherwise be the case had the client determined to effect transactions through the brokerage relationships generally recommended by the advisory firm.

With respect to Wilshire client assets that are managed by a third-party investment manager, the investment manager has a fiduciary obligation to seek best execution for all transactions executed on behalf of the client in accordance with its own policies and procedures.

Soft Dollars

Wilshire does not have any soft dollar arrangements. Wilshire does receive payment from third parties for analytic services as a result of soft dollar arrangements by our clients.

Order Aggregation

Wilshire does not regularly execute transactions for multiple clients with a broker-dealer. Were it to arise, Wilshire may aggregate transactions if it were unlikely that aggregation would work to the disadvantage of any client whose order is to be aggregated. However, it is possible that the effect of aggregation may work to a clients' disadvantage in relation to a particular order.

Review of Accounts

Periodic Reviews

Each business unit performs periodic account reviews, as appropriate, when market conditions dictate or as agreed upon with the client. Client account reviews involve various Wilshire personnel and may include portfolio managers, consultants and members of our manager research team.

Review Triggers

Other conditions that may trigger a review are changes in applicable tax laws, new investment information, and/or changes in a client's situation.

Regular Reports

Clients receive periodic communications on at least a quarterly basis. The updates may include a valuation statement, portfolio statement, fact sheets, and/or market commentary.

Custody

Private Investment Funds

Wilshire is deemed to have custody of the assets held by private investment funds for which Wilshire serves as general partner or managing member. With respect to the assets held by these funds, Wilshire takes the following steps: 1) all assets held by the funds are held by qualified custodians; 2) the funds are audited annually by a member of the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board; 3) either Wilshire or the applicable custodian sends, not less than quarterly, statements to all investors in a fund; and 4) audited financial statements prepared in accordance with "generally accepted accounting principles" will be distributed to all investors in a fund within 120 days (180 days for a fund of funds) of the end of each fiscal year.

Investment Discretion

Discretionary Authority

Wilshire provides investment discretionary services and accepts discretionary authority to manage assets on behalf of clients, as more fully detailed above under Types of Advisory Services. Wilshire's discretionary authority on behalf of a client will be as detailed in the client's investment advisory agreement, including any investment restrictions.

Voting Client Securities

Proxy Votes

Non-discretionary clients are expected to vote their own proxies unless they delegate this responsibility to the applicable investment manager. Wilshire may have responsibility for voting proxies for discretionary clients and where a client has designated Wilshire such responsibility. In those instances, Wilshire will act prudently and in the best interest of its clients, in accordance with our policies.
