

Shaping a Strategy

to end violence against all girls and women

Key takeaways from the June 2013 meeting of the Move to End Violence Movement Makers.

Roadmap

- The Move to End Violence Story
- Four Essential Movement Conversations
 - Defining our Movement
 - All Girls and Women
 - Defining Violence
 - Root Causes of Violence
- Grow the Movement

The Move to End Violence Story

If we want to end violence against all girls and women, then we need...

The 10 Year Arc

BUILDING CRITICAL MASS

How to work with the Vision

COHORT TWO VISION RESONANCE

INTERCONNECTED/ INTERDEPENDENCE

- "we" as inclusive of oppressed - men's? - youth?
- WEAVING TOGETHER COMMUNITIES - inter-generational - inter-system

Naming oppressed groups
Acknowledging the justification of our RAGE

Linkages between work in both spheres

LOVE

- Where do we get to do that work?
- How do we get there?
- Trust - critical canvas based on LOVE

WORLD w/out VIOLENCE against GIRLS & WOMEN

- Is possible
- Women are SAFE & VALUED in all ways, all places

VALUES/ ROOTS

- Visual hopeful even in the face of resistance

STRUCTURAL/ INSTITUTIONAL change

- Who is "we"?
- Individuals / institutions?
- Leadership shift

Engage others' allies

Include analysis of POWER

PROACTIVE

- Get in front of the violence
- Men have to be part of this in an intricate, structural way

Building agency of MOST VULNERABLE

- Measure of our success
- Named in vision/mission
- Human dignity
- Survivor leadership

VISION

- Boldness of the LONG Statement
- PIVOTS important
- Process of building vision wheel more powerful than looking at it?
- ALL girls & women good shift in language

HIGHEST POINTS of RESONANCE

Making VISIBLE, the INVISIBLE
OPENNESS

BUILDING agency of the most VULNERABLE

INTERSECTION

MULTIPLE entry POINTS

PROACTIVE

ANALYSIS of POWER

DEEPLY ROOTED structures of INEQUITY

INCLUSIVE LANGUAGE describing OPPRESSIONS

Data-Analysis-Strategy

Essential Conversations

Why we engage in Essential Movement Conversations

Build deeper connections

Go beyond either-or thinking

Build our individual and collective capacity for complexity

Seek to understand, rather than to be understood

Four Essential Movement Conversations:

What is a movement?

Who are “all girls
and women?”

How do we define
violence?

What are the root causes of violence?

What is a Movement?

People aligned around a shared understanding of violence who are seeking a change in society values and whom propose another set of core values not currently reflected in society.

- Values are guided by:
 - intersectional analysis
 - marginalized are at the center
 - community approach
 - heals systems and individuals

All Girls and Women?

Considerations:

- the implications on framing, data, and the work using an intersectional analysis
- internal and external strategies that bring survivors out of the shadows
- integrate and talk about the work with boys and men
- redefine how violence impacts all relationships

Defining Violence

- The definition must move beyond physical, verbal and emotional to include: poverty, misogyny, lack of agency, and exploitation of resources.
- Challenges in defining violence are:
 - Interpersonal v. structural
 - Abuse v. Violence
 - Gender Based Violence v. Girls & Women

Root Causes of Violence

Common Themes:

- misogyny, racism, colonization, devaluation of humanity
- Roots are reinforced by political, economic and military structures
- different types of fear: lack of resources, fear of difference, exclusion and isolation

Leading a Conversation on the Root Causes of Violence

Grow the Movement

Share | Blog | Organize

On Twitter:

@moveendviolence

On Our Blog:

MovetoEndViolence/blog

On Facebook:

Facebook.com/MoveToEndViolence

www.movetoendviolence.org