"A terrifying, tremendous courtroom drama... through deft editing and a keen sense of detail, Baichwal manages to compress the case of Johnson vs. Monsanto Company into a superbly paced, tightly wound thriller"

-- Barry Hertz, The Globe and Mail

"...another illustration of coldblooded corporate denialism in the face of widespread harm..."

-- Dennis Harvey, Variety

"Startling...Extremely important, essential viewing that affects every one of us."
-- Anne Brodie, What She Said

SYNOPSIS

Does the most widely used weed killer in the world cause cancer? On October 3, 2023, Film Movement and Fathom Events invite audiences to discover for themselves with a special one-night only nationwide theatrical release of INTO THE WEEDS, which follows the story of groundskeeper Lee Johnson and his fight for justice against agrichemical giant Monsanto (now Bayer, which bought the company in 2018), the manufacturer of the weed killer, Roundup.

In 2015, the International Agency for Research on Cancer (IARC), a branch of the World Health Organization, classified glyphosate – the active ingredient in Roundup – as "probably carcinogenic to humans." A year later, Johnson filed a lawsuit claiming that Ranger Pro, a commercial-grade variant of Roundup, was a substantial contributing factor in causing his Non-Hodgkin's lymphoma. Johnson's was the first "bellwether case" in a mass tort against Monsanto involving tens of thousands of plaintiffs: gardeners, golfers, farmers, groundskeepers, and ordinary people, following and trusting the instructions on the label.

Blending interviews, testimonials, trial footage, news coverage, and vérité, the film follows the progression of this groundbreaking lawsuit, while also stepping back to consider the systemic impact of glyphosate-based herbicides on human health, our food systems, and the biodiversity of our planet.

This special event screening of INTO THE WEEDS will also feature exclusive follow-up bonus footage exploring the question: "Can there be a future without pesticides and if so, how do we get there?" Featuring findings and expert testimony from scientists, doctors, policymakers, farmers, environmentalists, food safety advocates, and concerned public figures, audiences will leave the screening both informed and inspired to take action at home, at work, and in their communities.

The nationwide theatrical event on October 3 opening on more than 600 screens is being supported by the following NGO Official Screening Partners:

Environmental Working Group, Friends of the Earth, Re:wild Your Campus, Pesticide Action Network North America, Green America's Soil & Climate Alliance and the Center for Food Safety.

Pioneering, family run organic food company Nature's Path is also an official partner.

"Into the Weeds so powerfully exemplifies the need to eliminate the use of toxic pesticides in our food system," says Jyoti Stephens, VP Mission and Strategy at Nature's Path Organic Foods. "Increasing organic food consumption is one of the key solutions consumers can enact to protect themselves, as research shows an organic diet can quickly and substantially reduce pesticide exposure in humans by 70% in just six days. It is profoundly moving, and scientific evidence like this helps drive Nature's Path's mission to make organic food available to all."

The Opening Night Film of Hot Docs 2022, and an Official Selection of the Hamptons International Film Festival was directed by one of North America's foremost and influential documentarians, Jennifer Baichwal. Her previous awardwinning films include Manufactured Landscapes, named as one of 150 Essential Works in Canadian Cinema History by TIFF in 2016, and Anthropocene: The Human Epoch, that played Sundance and Berlin, then won the Toronto Film Critics Association Prize for Best Canadian Film and a Canadian Screen Award in 2019.

Tickets for INTO THE WEEDS can be purchased NOW via FathomEvents.com and at participating theaters. For a complete list of theater locations, visit the Fathom Events website. (Theater participants are subject to change).
