

THE NETHERLANDS – March 2023

CONTENTS

WOZ PROPERTY VALUATION TOO HIGH? PROTEST YOURSELF, COUNCILS SAY	1
MINISTERS TO CRACK DOWN ON WOZ PROPERTY VALUATION BUREAUS	1

WOZ PROPERTY VALUATION TOO HIGH? PROTEST YOURSELF, COUNCILS SAY

Notices of new WOZ values are currently being rolled out. They are based on January 2022 values and are used for various taxes, including property tax, and other local authority levies. This article urges taxpayers to object themselves, rather than via commercial companies, to help the authorities avoid agency procedural costs that are incurred and could be better spent on public services.

The article can be accessed via the following link:

WOZ property valuation too high? Protest yourself, councils say - DutchNews.nl

MINISTERS TO CRACK DOWN ON WOZ PROPERTY VALUATION BUREAUS

The government is reviewing the rules on process costs paid to specialist bureaus who challenge property valuations on behalf of taxpayers. This article looks at the changes that may be made to urge individual taxpayers to make their own challenges.

The article can be accessed via the following link:

Ministers to crack down on WOZ property valuation bureaus - DutchNews.nl