Summary

A passionate independent designer and self-taught web developer, I have cultivated a unique blend of skills from both my academic pursuits and diverse international experiences. Born in Italy, my wanderlust led me to live in England, Spain, Poland, and Serbia, exposing me to various cultures and work environments.

While my working journey began in England, my experiences there, coupled with subsequent studies and internships across Europe, have significantly shaped my skillset. Today, I am adept in teamwork, adaptability, problem-solving, multilingualism, patience, and empathy — the latter being a cornerstone in the design realm.

Driven by a passion for offering aesthetically pleasing and efficient solutions to people's problems, I have embarked on a freelancing adventure. My goal is to collaborate with global clients, continue my travels, and relentlessly pursue new knowledge every day.
