Indian Grand Narrative

Rajiv Malhotra's upcoming book titled Indian Grand Narrative is rapidly becoming the theme for numerous events, conclaves, lit fests, and manthans. As part of book project, he gave a very important lecture at the WAVES conference in Delhi on the central importance of Shastras in the Indian Grand Narrative.

An important original insight is introduced for the first time. He explains why Vedic dharma has survived while most other "pagan" (pre-Abrahamic faiths) disappeared around the world. He then shows how serious threats to our shastras now comes from the Post-Modernist form of Marxism. Video.

Swadeshi Muslims

Rajiv Malhotra announced the launch of a game-changing new movement, Swadeshi Muslims as part of the larger Indian Grand Narrative project during a lecture in Mumbai.

Later it was followed by a Q&A session. Rajiv Malhotra talked about:

- The need for a reformation in Islam based on mutual respect
- The need to engage the Muslim community instead of appeasement which leads to radicalization and ghettoization
- How a Swadeshi Muslim is much more than being merely an Indian Muslim

Kerala Floods

In the context of the August 2018 Kerala floods and the huge fund raising ostensibly for relief work, Rajiv Malhotra had stressed the need for proper due diligence before making donations. He was then attacked and defamed on social media by leftist outlets as being pro-Hindutva and anti-humanity.

In separate interviews Rajiv Malhotra clarifies his position, highlights his personal experience with relief work and together they explore hidden agendas behind foreign aid organizations. With Vivek Agnihotri he discusses why it is important to demand accountability for such funds raised (Video).

Rajiv Malhotra and Madhu Kishwar discuss if there a Deep State in India with well-defined objectives and mandates and which works behind the scene pulling the strings. Whenever there is dissent or deviation from a certain ideology, they tend to stifle such voices. Video.
