

NATIVE BIRDS

AT BREAM HEAD SCENIC RESERVE

Tui

Photo courtesy of David Monro

Miromiro, North Island tomtit, male

Photo courtesy of DOC

Korimako, Bellbird

Photo courtesy of DOC

Riroriro, Grey warbler

Photo courtesy of DOC

Kukupa

Photo courtesy of David Monro

North Island kaka

Photo courtesy of David Monro

North Island brown kiwi

Photo courtesy of DOC

Ruru, Morepork

Photo courtesy of David Monro

Tauhou, Silvereye

Photo courtesy of ©Janice McKenna

Toutouwai, North Island robin

Photo courtesy of DOC

Red-crowned kakariki

Photo courtesy of David Monro

Oi, Grey-faced petrel

Photo courtesy of DOC

Korora

Northern little blue penguin

Photo courtesy of DOC

With sustained and intensive pest control at Bream Head the ecosystem is flourishing; birds are being reintroduced that have been absent from mainland Northland for over a century and some species that were only occasional visitors from the Hen and Chicken offshore islands are now breeding within the reserve. See which of these birds you can spot next time you visit.

FIND OUT MORE: www.breamheadtrust.nz