

35 Best Restaurants in Chicago

All the food that makes the Windy City one of America's best places to eat.

Ally Straussner

RESTAURANT

Momotaro →

$$

Momotaro is a massive, multifaceted, sceney affair spread across three floors. The main dining room features lofted ceilings with modern Japanese decor spread throughout. The menu offers half-a-dozen styles of Japanese cuisine, including donburi, robatayaki, and yakiniku, but you'll want to order from the Nigirizushi section, a menagerie of chef-recommended sushi bites. If you happen to be more a red meat type of person, the A5 Miyazaki steak will melt in your mouth, but the experience will cost you: $100 for just five ounces of wagyu.