DESIGNER SHOWHOUSE

For the second Brooklyn Heights Designer Showhouse, presented by design media sponsor NYC&G, 15 decorating firms transformed a historic 1820s wood-frame residence into a contemporary marvel. Read on to see how their ideas came to fruition.

JESSE PARRIS-LAMB KITCHEN

For their showhouse debut, Brooklyn residents Amanda Jesse and Whitney Parris-Lamb transformed a formerly dark kitchen into a bright open space, while introducing bold elements like a hand-stenciled “area rug” and a backsplash of terra-cotta tile. “Our concept is a bridge between the history of the home and the young family we envision living here,” Parris-Lamb says.
