Tim has a unique academic background, as he graduated from Framingham State University in 2010 with a Bachelor's degree in Business Administration with a concentration in Marketing. Tim made the decision to change career paths and pursue his passion of Physical Therapy, earning his doctorate from the University of Rhode Island in 2023. During his final year, Tim worked as a student Physical Therapist at Elevate PT for three months, followed by various outpatient clinics, and home health settings.

Tim's decision to change career paths to Physical Therapy stemmed from his passion for health, fitness, and ability to help others improve. Tim is a strong believer in patient centered care and having the ability to tailor treatment toward individual needs as promised with Elevate PT's mission. Tim is very excited to finally start and grow his Physical Therapy career at Elevate with the goal of building lasting relationships, providing high-quality care, and being involved in patients journeys toward achieving their goals.

Tim is married with two daughters who are the joys of his life. When not working, he enjoys spending time with his family, going to the gym, and anything having to do with sports.
