Bridger Launches New Podcast Series

At Bridger, we strongly believe that music industry knowledge is key to all artists' career growth. It is essential that they thoroughly understand the industry in which they want to grow.

The music industry comes with specific rules and a unique vocabulary. To help musicians understand these specificities, Bridger is launching a new weekly podcast series named "The Musician Hub". The podcast unveils how the music industry works, explain each player's role, and clarify important terms. Each episode provides useful information and tips dedicated to songwriters, DIY artists, and independent musicians to help develop their music projects, grow their audiences, and make sure they get the revenues they deserve.

"The Musician Hub" comes in addition to Bridger's blog and offers a different channel for artists to learn about the music industry
