Our Mission

The Insurance Industry Charitable Foundation helps communities and enriches lives by uniting the collective strengths of the insurance industry in providing grants, volunteer service and leadership.

Who We Serve and How

Through the collaborative efforts of insurance companies, reinsurance companies, employees, agents and brokers, individuals and strategic partners of the industry, the Foundation supports community nonprofits and charitable organizations that meet local needs throughout the United States and United Kingdom.

IICF exists to provide grants and generate support for designated, charitable nonprofit organizations, and to reinvest in local communities where funds are raised for maximum impact. Through its Community Grants Program, the Northeast Division helps to meet critical local needs by supporting programs in the area of education, children at risk, the environment and disaster preparedness.

Since 1998, the Foundation has hosted the largest ongoing volunteer service initiative in the insurance industry, the IICF Week of Giving. Industry professionals from across the U.S. and UK join together for this weeklong series of volunteer projects serving an array of nonprofits, and giving back to the local communities in which industry volunteers live and work.

The Foundation provides leadership on philanthropic issues and endeavors through each division's Board of Directors, Chapter Boards and Associate Boards of young professionals.

IICF further inspires action through global and divisional leadership initiatives that include the Women in Insurance Conference Series, the Early Learning Initiative in partnership with Sesame Workshop, Week of Giving volunteering, IICF personal giving campaign, McKinsey & Company philanthropic reporting, disaster relief campaigns, annual Benefit Dinners, Philanthropic Roundtables and more. Visit www.iicf.org to learn more about each of these industry initiatives.

Peter's Place was founded in 2001 by a group of friends who were mourning the death of ten year old Peter Morsbach. Peter's Place provides free peer support groups for grieving children and families both at the center in Radnor and in schools throughout the Greater Philadelphia area. Peter's Place a safe and compassionate community where families can get support after the death of someone significant in their lives by connecting with others who have had a similar experience.

Inter-Faith Housing Alliance

Since 1982, Inter-Faith Housing Alliance has been helping children and their families reach their goal of self-sufficiency. Originally a 24-hour emergency hotline designed to connect families to available resources, services expanded in 1989 using the successful Interfaith Hospitality Network as a model. A coalition of local congregations was formed, dedicated to providing shelter, food, and crucial services to children and their families experiencing homelessness, thus becoming the first Pennsylvania Interfaith Hospitality Network (now called Family Promise) affiliate and the fourth in the nation.

Today, Inter-Faith Housing Alliance remains committed to the mission of providing opportunities for families in the diverse community to achieve self-sufficiency by offering community-based programs designed to bridge homelessness and independence.

Philadelphia Children's Alliance

The Philadelphia Children's Alliance (PCA) is dedicated to promoting healing and justice for sexually abused children in Philadelphia. PCA brings together a team of professionals to allow abused children to tell their story using a coordinated process in a safe and welcoming facility. Years ago, abused children would have to recount their trauma over and over again... to police officers, district attorneys, social workers, and more. That is no longer the case in Philadelphia, thanks to the Philadelphia Children's Alliance.

The Insurance Industry Charitable Foundation (IICF) helps communities and enriches lives by uniting the collective strength of the insurance industry in providing grants, volunteer service and leadership. #insurancegivesback
