

Afternoon Delights

Bradley's Jewellers York has partnered with Michelin Star chef Andrew Pern of York Minster Refectory to create a special Yorkshire Rose-themed afternoon tea. Here, we can preview what to expect of this fine jewellery infused experience...

Multi-award-winning jewellery business Bradley's Jewellers York, led by Kay Bradley on Low Petergate, is known for pushing the boundaries of fine jewellery with its

Yorkshire-inspired ranges. Now, it has collaborated with Michelin Star chef Andrew Pern of York Minster Refectory in association with esteemed jewellery house Fabergé to create a special Yorkshire-themed afternoon tea experience, inspired by the Fabergé x Bradley's Jewellers Yorkshire Rose collection of fine jewellery. 'A Yorkshire Rose Afternoon Tea' includes Hattingley Valley English Brut Rosé, Yorkshire Gold tea, Arlington eggs, Stamford Farm clotted cream and Hawes Wensleydale cheese, among other local ingredients, to toast the best of the region. The traditional-with-a-twist menu concludes with a pink Fabergé-inspired egg dessert with dark chocolate and cherry Kirsch liqueur, in recognition of the ongoing partnership between Bradley's Jewellers York and Fabergé. Each element of this high tea experience has been developed in partnership with Andrew Pern, head chef of York Minster Refectory and Michelin Star owner of The Star Inn at Harome and The Star Inn The City in York. Guests can find the Grade II Listed restaurant on Deangate, complete with its exceptional views of York Minster cathedral. Pern's Yorkshire-themed menu includes a nod to 'God's Own Country' - a mini Yorkshire curd tart and a zingy ginger parkin, blood orange and Yorkshire rhubarb trifle. All will be complemented by displays showcasing the Fabergé x Bradley's Jewellers Yorkshire Rose collection, including the Yorkshire Rose Egg Surprise Locket and Yorkshire Rose Egg Charm. Guests will also receive a £150 gift voucher to spend at Bradley's Jewellers York and a special gift from Kay Bradley and her team.

York Minster Refectory head chef Andrew Pern says: "The beautiful Fabergé x Bradley's Jewellers Yorkshire Rose collection is at the heart of the collaboration, and, for our part, the traditional afternoon tea classics are given the star treatment with a luxurious Michelin twist. We've also added a glass of Hattingley Valley English Brut Rosé to the proceedings too, as this was served when His Majesty King Charles III visited our historic establishment earlier this year. We also hope you enjoy a right royal visit too!" 'A Yorkshire Rose Afternoon Tea' in association with Bradley's Jewellers and Fabergé and in partnership with York Minster Refectory will commence on Mother's Day for 50 invited guests and will continue until April 19, 2024. Sitzings are available exclusively on Wednesdays, Fridays and Sundays and pre-booking is essential. Reservations can be made via yorkminsterrefectory.co.uk. Contact Bradley's Jewellers York at infobradleys@btconnect.com or +44 (01904) 655 235 for more information.
