Welcome to Typo, where visual stories are brought to life through graphic design.

We specialize in leading brands in new visual directions.

Our passion for design and collaboration can't exist without people. Here at Typo, relationships are the most important part of what we do. Everyone has a story to tell and ideas to express. We make it our goal through the use of content creation to turn passion and ideas into tangible assets. To put it simply, we're passionate about making others great. Typo Design Studio began from a mutual love for the way good design transforms enterprise and people.

Colorado, the very place that inspired a passion for creating and translating the same beauty we are surrounded by is the home of Typo Design Studio. While media and design are our focus, our true passion is people. Knowing the transformative power of good design, we exist to make others great here at typo. Great collaboration cannot exist without great relationships, and we strive to be a part of helping others succeed even beyond the design process.

Timothy Rhyne

OWNER + ART DIRECTOR OF TYPO
DESIGN STUDIO

Tim is currently operating in a space that focuses on finding the crossroads of architecture, photography and graphic design.

His background in architectural design now catalyzes his design explorations that are infused into Typo. He exist in a design methodology that is pairing an explorative approach with architectural spatial ideas to bring new design efforts alive.

Stories that create connection

We make content for people, not algorithms.

Cinco was created as an answer to the question of how brands could put forward excellent content. Agencies weren't catching up with the needs of brands and content creation which is where Cinco uniquely filled in the gap. With years of non-fiction television production, it was an easy transition from networks to brands and "marketing as entertainment." Now we see how brands are creating culture and selling experiences. We create authentic experiences for the sake of entertainment to enable brands to connect with their audiences in unique, unexpected ways.
